Hoff is Hills Friendship Days parade marshal

By Mavis Fodness

Pete Hoff will be the parade marshal for the Hills Friendship Days celebration this year.

"We are trying to honor longtime business people or former business people in Hills," said Howie Vis of Helping Build Communities Stronger.

Hoff, longtime Hills resident and owner of Pete Hoff Auto Repair, will lead the parade, scheduled to start at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

Hoff owned and operated his business for 18 years before he and his late wife, Pearl, sold the building in 1998 when Pete retired at 62.

Within weeks of the sale, however, Pearl died. Pete decided to stay in Hills, where they had lived since 1960.

He said he's excited for Saturday's parade because it means his three children, nine grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren will meet in Hills in his honor. "It sounds like they are all coming," Hoff said.

Friendship Days kicks off with the following events on Friday:

•9 a.m. Golf tournament at Meadow Acres, Larchwood.

•Evening, Little League tournament at Hills ball park.

•At dusk, movie night at Bethlehem Lutheran Church beginning with a children-appropriate movie followed by a teen-appropriate movie.

Saturday events:

Kids get hard hats, prizes at Touch a Truck Night on Plaza June 13

By Lori Sorenson

Children of all ages will be able to don a hard hat and take an up-close look at trucks and heavy equipment in downtown Luverne Monday.

The Plaza Committee of Luverne Initiatives for Tomorrow will host "Touch a Truck Night" from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Monday, June 13, in the Plaza lot near the History Center on

Main Street.

Main Street will close to make room for heavy equipment, and the Historical Society will serve a hot dog meal as a fundraiser from 5 to 7 p.m. There will be picnic tables set up.

"Basically, we are having large trucks and vehicles on display," said Chamber Director Jane Lanphere. "All kids will be given a hard hat and when they go up to the truck or vehicle – the driver will hand them a sticker to put on their hard hat."

Once the children visit all the pieces of equipment — at least 20, they can receive a prize, she said. "We are having great participation so far with dump trucks, snow blowers, garbage truck, tractors, fire truck, school bus, ambulance, police car and more."

She said the idea came from Plaza Committee member LaDonna Van Aartsen, who took her grandson to something in Sioux Falls. "We have gotten a lot of great support and enthusiasm from the community businesses and government," Lanphere said.

"It is a night for children (and adults) to meet the drivers and see the vehicles that serve us in the community."

Equipment so far includes the ambulance, city garbage truck and other city equipment, county snow plow and snow blower, tractors, firetrucks, school bus, sheriff's office squad cars and more.

The rain date for Touch a Truck Night is June 20.

City clears lot at corner of Highway 75 for future development, possibly Fareway

By Lori Sorenson

Demolition crews removed the city-owned building at Main Street and Highway 75 on Wednesday, June 1, to clear the way for future development.

The city purchased the property last year from the Dennis and Norma Remme family who opened Remedez Hair Salon in 2007 in the location, which also housed the business office for Remme Construction.

Remedez closed in January 2021 and the 7,348-square-foot lot was listed for sale in March. The city purchased it last year for $155,000 with intent to remove it.

In the months since then, Fareway Stores bought the former W-2 Quality Meats building on the opposite corner and the company is eyeing the newly cleared lot for a possible Fareway expansion.

According to Star Herald Facebook followers, the building has a long business history in Luverne, once housing a gas station, Gert Egan's Café in the 1950s and 60s, a gun shop and others.

Brad Finstad, New Ulm, will be the Republican candidate facing DFL candidate Jeff Ettinger, Austin, in the special election to replace the late U.S. Rep. Jim Hagedorn.

Finstad, a former USDA official for the Trump administration, and Ettinger a former Hormel CEO, emerged from the crowded Republican and Democratic primary races Tuesday, May 24.

Voters in southern Minnesota chose from eight DFL candidates and 10 GOP candidates to determine who would advance to an Aug. 9 special election for the seat.

Ettinger garnered more than 64 percent of the DLF vote while Finstad won by only 388 votes over state Rep. Jeremy Munson on the GOP side. The winner of the Ettinger-Finstad race will serve the remainder of Hagedorn's term, which ends in January.

On the same day as the Aug. 9 special election, a primary will decide party nominees for the normal November general election. The winner of the fall contest, which will be held under the new courtdrawn lines brought about by redistricting, will be elected to a full two-year term to the seat.

Information about the candidates and the process can be found at the Secretary of State's website, sos.state.mn.us.

Weber challenged for Senate seat

The Minnesota District 21 State Senate seat is open for election, and incumbent Bill Weber will face challenger Brad Hutchinson, Mountain Lake, also a Republican, in a race for that seat.

Race in City Ward 2

In city of Luverne elections, incumbent Kevin Aaker will face challenger Merlin Kracht in a race for the Ward 2 seat on the Luverne City Council.

Kracht is a longtime Luverne businessman, operating his Mert's Repair shop in the city's industrial park.

"I'm running for council to address the needs of the people of Luverne instead of the wants of city government," he said.

No other contests

According to Rock County Auditor Ashley Kurtz, all city and county incumbent candidates have filed for re-election.

Ward 1 Luverne City Council member Caroline Thorson is running unopposed for election to another term.

Because of redistricting, all county commission seats are up for election. They are Gary Overgaard in District 1, Stan Williamson in District 2, Greg Burger in District 3, Sherri Thompson in District 4 and Jody Reisch in District 5.

The offices of Rock County Sheriff Evan Verbrugge and Rock County Attorney Jeff Haubrich are up for election this fall, and both have filed for reelection.

Jim Veldkamp filed for Soil and Water Supervisor District 5, and Josh Ossefoort filed for the SWCD 2 seat.

There is a second candidate filing period, Aug. 2-16, for all other cities, townships and school districts that hold elections in November.

What's that smell?

By Scott Rall Outdoors columnist

I called my son Brandon on Saturday of Memorial Day weekend to thank him for his military service. He was deployed twice to Afghanistan and Iraq back when things were pretty hairy for our service members.

I asked him if he wanted to take his two daughters fishing for any part of the weekend, and we started reminiscing about one fishing adventure we had when he was little.

Brandon and his twin sister, Brittany, were about 5 or 6 years old at the time. I had gotten a super-hot fishing tip about a local lake in Nobles County, and at the time my wife was working 3 p.m. to midnight at the local hospital, so if I was going to go fishing, it had to be a family affair. We added the resident cocker spaniel to the mix as well.

I met my tipster just coming off the lake with his limit that he caught in about 20 minutes, and he gave me three of the hotcolored twister tails in a color called bubble gum. I was all set. We unloaded the boat and with pop, snacks, and a dog in tow, we were off. We only motored about a quarter mile to the rocky shoreline on the east side, and I dropped the trolling motor to start a slow stroll to what was going to be a great night.

I tied on the right stuff and told the kids to make sure they didn't spill the pop in the boat. Before I started, I poured them each an orange soda and threw out two rods with a bobber and bait to float behind the boat as I slowly moved along. As I was readying to make my first cast, I heard a holler, "I am snagged." I fixed the snag and then tried to make my very first cast again. I had raised the bobbers so the bait was only a foot or two under water, thinking this would solve who had come on the lake after we did. He and his wife were already halfway to their limit. It was time to make things happen. I picked up my rod and made one incredibly poor cast and as the jig did a perfect rendition of a gymnast in the uneven bars by wrapping around a branch 120 times, I knew my troubles were not over.

I broke the line, tied on another jig having lost one of the three magic bubble gum twisters, and knew I had to be more careful. I earlier had considered duct tape to subdue my little fishing partners but though better of that idea. I was just about to make my second cast when at the top of a little child's lungs I heard, "What's that smell?"

What I thought were challenging events up to this point were only the warmup band of this fishing adventure. Rosco, the cocker spaniel, had laid out a nice soft No. 2, and those same four little feet transformed it into a thin coating of doo over the entire length of the boat's carpet.

I paused for a moment and surveyed my current situation: 40 million flies, orange mashed potatoes, boat carpet that looked like the floor of a hog building, and two kids that wanted nothing but out.

As I hung my head in utter despair, I pulled up the trolling motor and headed to the landing where I met that same couple loading their boat ahead of me with a limit of 12 nice walleyes in the 16to 18-inch range. Kids with shoes removed and a boat on the trailer, I headed home on what young kids today call the walk (or in my case) the drive of shame. When I got home, the only conceivable solution to a boat interior that looked like a landfill was the garden hose. I put the kids to bed and fertilized my front yard with 30 minutes of homegrown pressure washing. The bite lasted about two weeks on this lake, but I never made it back to try again. As unsuccessful outings go, this one topped the list, but today those little feet are attached to two adults 36 years of age. Memories outdoors are the most vivid. I fished for thousands of hours with those two kids, and I would not have traded a single minute for anything in the world. Now I hope to have the chance to repeat those memories with four grandchildren. But no orange pop is allowed.

more than offset dark clouds and intermittent sprinkles that persisted through the Buffalo Days weekend.

my snagging issues.

I maneuvered for my first precision cast, and a strange sound appeared in my ears. It was the sound of a 32-oz. bottle of orange soda that was pouring copiously out unto the carpet in what appeared to be slow motion.

Now this is far from the first thing that has gotten spilled in this boat. I did what I could, and the dog was helping lap up what he could get. What followed were two more snags and some more unorchestrated chaos.

It was during a lull, that I was just about to make my first cast, and I heard the sound of a potato chip bag that exploded when Brandon tried to open it. The chips fell right where the pop had spilled. As I again picked up my rod, I was informed that one of them had to go the bathroom.

Perfect timing. Handled that, and as I picked up my fishing rod yet again, it became abundantly clear that 40 million flies had found the chips mashed into the pop-soaked carpet by four little feet until it looked like orange mashed potatoes.

Things were looking pretty bleak. Another boat came by in the meantime, and it was a friend of mine Scott Rall, Worthington, is a habitat conservationist, avid hunting and fishing enthusiast and is president of Nobles County Pheasants Forever. # The 'Luverne Experience' Four friends regroup for Buffalo Days

My three besties from the LHS Class of 1981 and I celebrated turning 59 with a 24-hour

"Luverne Experience" over Buffalo Days.

Our adventure began at noon Friday with the renting of electric bikes from the Luverne Aquatics Center.

There were a few glitches. One battery was dead. Two batteries occasionally shorted out. The highlight was the collapsing seat which left one of us "riding like a circus monkey" for a portion of the ride.

But, just like we did in high school, we laughed so hard we cried, and the biking challenges became part of the adventure. (Disclaimer, staff members at the Aquatics Center were more than gracious and did their very best to help us have a great E-biking experience.)

After the bike challenges were sorted out, we did a progress survey of Luverne. From the Aquatics Center, east on Ashby Trail to the new campground, then back and south past the new apartment buildings by the fair grounds, then west to the Minnesota National Guard Armory building, to The Lake and back we rode bike and observed, "There's a lot going on here."

We broke up the ride

Cruise-In hors d'oeuvres by our friend's Sprinter van on the lawn near Maxwell Apartments.

As we laughed and talked and nibbled, a local home owner arrived with four pieces of Better Than (Something) cake.

"I saw you girls sitting out here and thought you might like some cake. I had a few extra pieces."

(Yes, this is the kind of community where people randomly share plates of homemade cake.)

Next we hit the Cruise-In. It was a little unsettling to see the 1963 car models called "old." Since the four of us are all 1963 models, we have chosen to be called "vintage."

Then it was back to Take 16 for food, music and, of course, really good craft beer. (I had a coupon!)

The slumber party at my house started at 11 and ended at 12:30, which was not quite like the old days when we'd wait for the sun to come up before going to bed.

At the 10 a.m. parade, we helped a small child fill his bag with candy before heading off to the Arts Festival on Court House Square.

It's hard to believe we four friends have spent 59 years having a "Luverne Experience." Last weekend was a great start to our 60th. Star Herald doles out thumbs for great grads, poor parking, community celebrations, inflated inflation and more

Thumbs up — to our local graduates: given their profile information in the recent Star Herald graduation edition, these kids are going places. Also, this week's Arts and Academics edition showcases all kinds of student talent worth community accolades.

Thumbs down — to Main Street business owners and their employees who park in front of other businesses. A brief stop is one thing, but we've heard from businesses who suffer from repeat all-day parkers that force elderly patrons to take extra steps around a vehicle in the middle of a block.

Thumbs up — to Buffalo Days Chamber staff, volunteers and committee organizers. Despite the dreary weather, the weekend had great participation and a wonderful lineup of attractions.

Thumbs down — to inflation. High prices — especially gas prices — hurt the most vulnerable among us. Our working families finally saw wage hikes but are now hammered by inflation (while corporations post record profits).

Thumbs up – to the local spirit of volunteerism in Rock County. In the wake of our

Memorial Day violent storms, we heard countless stories of neighbors helping neighbors to clean up debris from downed trees and damaged property. Thumbs down — to limited Sunday dining options in Luverne. Lila does a great job at the Pizza Ranch keeping people in town by keeping her doors open, but a dinner-and-drinks option requires an out-of-town trip. We understand the need for company days off, but Monday might be a better day off, especially during summer travel months and weekend community events.

Thumbs up — to Shawn Kinsinger and his Palace Theatre staff and volunteers for their superb work keeping our arts scene alive and vibrant in the community. His quarterly report to the City Council meeting (see related story) is similar to his past reports in that we have a great deal to be proud of in Luverne. We are the envy of community fine arts and entertainment around the region.

Thumbs down — to the weeds and shabby-looking shrubs on the back side of the Rock County Veterans Memorial. The fabulous memorial was built to honor our veterans, and we can do better than this.

Thumbs up — to the Luverne Chapter of Dollars for Scholars, which awarded more than $500,000 to the Class of 2022 qualifying seniors. Luverne is a great district for quality education and student opportunities, but the scholarships are certainly a bonus. Thumbs up also to the hundreds of community members and LHS alumni who donate money to the local chapter.

ECLIPSE

NAMI: Mental Health Bill to address needs, especially for children

In one of their final actions of the regular legislative sessions, the Minnesota House and Senate passed a mental health bill that will address some needs, especially for children.

"We are facing a mental health crisis in our state," said Sue Abderholden, executive director of NAMI Minnesota. "More people are needing mental health services and yet access is diminishing."

In 2019 a task force began studying community competency restoration programs to develop recommendations for individuals deemed incompetent to stand trial. The bill provides clear directives and timelines on the supervision of defendants to protect community concerns and the constitutional rights of the defendant at the same time.

"[This] will result in meaningful changes in people's lives. Instead of going through the revolving door into the jails, people with mental illnesses will be connected to the treatment, services, and housing they need to be well in the community," Abderholden said.

Among other things, the bill creates funding for:

•Crisis stabilization beds for children and youth. Currently there are crisis beds only for adults. This will provide an option for children boarding in the ER but who do not need hospitalization.

•School and shelter mental health programs, providing mental health treatment where the children and youth are.

•Loan forgiveness for mental health professionals.

•Mobile crisis services to build on the current system that covers all 87 counties but with inadequate funding cannot always respond in a timely way.

•Supervision to become a mental health professional for free. Finding and paying for supervision has been a major barrier for people completing their licensure requirements.

•Locked residential facilities for people deemed incompetent to stand trial.

•Programs that help young people experiencing psychosis.

Another bill that passed late Sunday night was the Health and Human Services Policy bill. Among other things it allows:

•Children's Hospital to add psychiatric beds.

•Two-way interactive "telehealth" to supervise people working toward licensure.

•Mental health practitioners to be case managers.

•Students completing an internship or practicum to be mental health practitioners.

•Respite care for foster families.

Abderholden said NAMI applauds these investments and policy changes but is still needed for day treatment and stabilizing and maintaining workers in children's programs.

NAMI Minnesota is a nonprofit organization that works to improve the lives of children and adults with mental illnesses and their families through its programs of education, support and advocacy.

Henning Construction demolished the bridge May 24 (above), and by May 26, paving had begun on the new road that intersects directly with County Road 4. The new traffic patterns are deemed safer at the new intersections.

The old concrete bridge near the Luverne City Park entrance has been removed, and River Road has its own entrance to County Road 4 farther east.

Henning Construction demolished the bridge May 24, and by May 26, paving had begun on the new road that intersects directly with County Road 4.

Luverne City Council members approved the project last summer, based on traffic safety and condition of the bridge, and the city worked with Rock County Highway Engineer Mark Sehr.

"I really think our Rock County engineer put a lot of thought in this project, and I think having two entrances down there, a separate one for River Road, is the best plan," City Administrator John Call said in August.

"The main thing is that the bridge is beyond its useful years."

Henning was the low bidder on the work at $80,707.

At the section meet this year, the qualifiers include Tenley Nelson first in the 800-meter dash in a personal record 2:20.46 — the fifth-fastest time in this year's Class A. She was only four seconds off the top mark of 2:16.82 of Katrina Sortland of Zumbrota-Mazeppa.

Jenna DeBates had a secondplace finish in the 3,200-meter dash in a time of 11:57.52. Elizabeth Wagner advances in the 300-meter hurdles after a secondplace finish 48.22. Jocelyn Hart finished first in the shot put (38-11) and her sister, Jadyn Hart, finished first in the discus (112-03).

Luverne qualified several relay teams this year for the state meet, and coach Pete Janiszeski said he likes to see that. "You get more people involved, and where you may go to state in an individual event and finish out of the top nine for the podium, on a relay team with other good runners you have a good chance to make the podium," he said.

The 4-by-800-meter relay team of Elizabeth Wagner, Tiana Lais, DeBates and Tenley Nelson finished first (9:47.93) and face the tall task of defending a threestraight championships in this relay.

On the boys' side Ashton Sandbulte won the 100-meter dash (10.91) and was second in the 200-meter dash (22.31). When asked where he gets his speed, Sandbulte said, "My dad was fast, my whole family is athletic." (The Star Herald will feature Sandbulte's running in the June 16 edition).

He enters the state meet with the fastest 100-meter time run this year in Class A at 10.63 and the fastest 200-meter dash in (22.25). He finished third last year in the 100-meter dash (11.02) and was part of the 4-by-200-meter relay team with Eli Radtke, who

Luverne boys' golf

The Luverne boys' golf team participated in Round 2 of section play on Wednesday, June 1, at the Oakdale Golf Club in Buffalo Lake.

The Cardinals earned their way as a team to Round 2 after finishing in fourth place out of 16 teams in Round 1. Luverne finished off their season strong after shooting a season best score of 318 in Round 2. Luverne's two-day total of 643 left them in fourth place in the final section standings.

New London-Spicer would claim the team championship after shooting a score of 604.

Luverne was led by Hartquist's round of 70. Sophomore Owen Sudenga fired a 78 for the Cardinals and finished just one shot away from a tie for fifth place individually and a shot at the state tournament.

"I felt really bad for Owen," said Sichmeller. "He played some awesome golf and nearly qualified as well for the state tournament. He had a bad start to his round, but he didn't give up and shot even par his last 10 holes to give himself a chance." Last year the team of Regan Feit, Lais, DeBates and Tenwin. Jarchow and Frahm will open doubles play today (Thursday) against John Gorman and Enrico Petto of Breck School of Minneapolis at 10 a.m. at the Reed-Sweatt Tennis Center in Minneapolis.

The pair actually first competed as a doubles team when they were freshmen.

Frahm was half of the section doubles championship team from last year with 2021 graduate Ben Jarchow.

Frahm was 26-2 while playing at No. 3 singles this season after competing in doubles in 2019 and 2021. (There was no boys' tennis season in 2020 because of the pandemic.)

"I've had a pretty good season," Frahm said. "It helps a lot practicing with Pierce and Griffen every day. They

According to Jarchow, what works in singles play may be different than in doubles play.

Jarchow plans to play tennis next year at the University of Northwestern in St. Paul.

Until then, Jarchow is looking forward to finishing his high school career at this week's state tournament.

"What I enjoy most about tennis is that it's just you out on the court," Cunningham said.

"I like the strategy of it. Each serve is its own contest. You have to stay positive and not let one mistake get you down. It's really one point at a time."

Cunningham said he's learned to approach his tennis game with more maturity over the years.

"I've learned to not get as mad when things go wrong, or at least try not to," he said. "I try to be happier on the court, which actually irritates some competitors and opposing coaches sometimes."

The state individual tournament, which includes both singles and doubles play, begins today (Thursday) at the either Marjan Veldic of Rochester Lourdes or Winfield Stephens of Providence Academy of Plymouth.

A loss would mean a consolation quarterfinal match at the same time against one of the same players.

"I'm excited for the matchups at state and the good competition," Cunningham said, "and hanging out with the team."

Cunningham, who also ran cross country for LHS in the fall, plans to continue his tennis career at Northwestern College in Orange City next year.

"In college you generally play both singles and doubles, so I'm looking forward to that," Cunningham said.

"It's been fun to maintain our streak (of team state tournament appearances) here and play with the guys, but I'm also excited to play in college."

Although LHS did not win a match, the No. 2 singles match was extremely competitive.

Luverne's Griffen Jarchow and SPA's Harry Mahmic required a tie-breaker set, which Jarchow lost 13-11.

With the loss, the Luverne team moved to the consolation bracket to face Minnewaska Area/Belgrade-Brooten-Elrosa, who lost 4-3 to Rock Ridge in the quarterfinals.

The consolation matchup took place Tuesday afternoon, after this edition of the Star Herald went to press.

A full summary of state tournament results will be published in next week's Star Herald.

What a friend we have in Jesus

How would you answer this question: Why do you come to church? Some may answer because it is what they have always done. Others may say because they like fellowship with friends.

Perhaps children like Sunday school classes or Vacation Bible School and being with friends. Youth may say so they can do fun youth activities, to fulfill confirmation requirements, or to hang out with friends.

Sometimes grandparents come to see the children's choir sing, or a Christmas program.

How about coming to church for non-Sunday activities or events, such as choir practice, Bible studies or quilting?

Or maybe you attend the funeral of a friend or neighbor, or eat at a church dinner, or participate in an AA or other type of meeting held in the building.

All of these are legitimate reasons for coming to church, but I hope that you get more out of church than just socializing and activities! I hope you get to make a new friend – Jesus.

There are many places where you can see friends, eat food and learn. There are many chances for people to do service projects and have fun. But these places do not necessarily have the opportunity to get to know and learn about Jesus, and discover how Jesus, and faith, can be an important part of life. Sharing the ups and downs of life is something that people often do with friends or spouses, but there is a limit to what humans can do to help in such situations. A listening ear or word of advice may be welcome, but it not always available.

That's where having a relationship with Jesus comes in. Jesus is always available and willing to listen. You can always take your joys and concerns to God, to Jesus, in prayer.

There is no one right way to pray. Prayer can be formal or informal, out loud or silent. Whatever it looks or sounds like, God hears ALL prayers.

So, if a person wants to learn how to pray, discover how to share their life with God, and meet friends old and new, where would they go?

Why, to church! In the midst of all the events and activities, they learn about Jesus. They learn about God's great love for us. They find others who are on the same journey, also putting their trust in God, and supporting one another through life. You may come to church for the social, learning and service reasons listed above, but in the process you'll learn about how Jesus
