Sanford requires staff to be vaccinated

Health system joins national trend of requiring COVID-19 vaccine for employees

By Lori Sorenson

Sanford Health Systems announced July 22 that it would require all employees, including its Good Samaritan Society locations, to get COVID-19 vaccinations by Nov. 1.

Dr. Josh Crabtree, Luverne, said the move was prompted by patient requests and common sense safety considerations.

"It's really important that people understand we have patients with vulnerabilities coming to us every day, asking our staff if they've had the vaccine," said Crabtree, vice president of Sanford Clinic for the Sioux Falls network.

"They depend on us and our staff to be as safe as we can be. ... We want people to trust that they will not be harmed when they come to us for care. This is the reason we are going to require all of our staff to get the COVID-19 vaccine."

He said 81 percent of Sanford Luverne employees are fully vaccinated, but he said he expects all but a small number, some of

Grand entrance welcomes visitors to Rock County Fair

The old stone ticket booth on the Rock County Fairground's northwest side received a little sprucing up with a new roof and, beginning on Sunday with the Ahrendt brothers' telehandler, a new 53-foot square iron tubing trellis joining the ticket booth and its two stone posts together. Retired welder Dean Wenzel spent 60 hours designing and creating the iron structure with his son, Rob. With the help of his son-in-law, Don Luitjens, and ag society member Jim Hatting on Monday, Wenzel put the finishing signage on the structure. The Rock County Fair continues through Saturday night.

Sanford Health employees are already required to have several other vaccines, including the annual flu shot. Under the new policy, any COVID-19 vaccine received in the past 12 months will qualify for the 2021 requirement.

All unvaccinated employees can get their vaccine at any time prior to Nov. 1, and Sanford allows certain exemptions for medical or religious reasons.

Construction begins on Ashby Memorial Trail

By Mavis Fodness

More than two years after proposing a bike and walking trail in memory of their son Chris, Gene and Barb Ashby saw construction on the 1.5-mile trail east of Luverne begin last week. Henning Construction of Adrian is moving dirt for the 8-foot-wide bituminous surface path.

Workers followed stakes set by DGR engineers of Rock Rapids for the recreational trail that begins at the Luverne City Park and extends east to County Road 9. Luverne Area Community Foundation is the fiscal agent for the project, which the Ashbys committed $1 million in 2019 to complete.

Emily Crabtree, LACF director, said because Henning's bid was under the engineer's estimate, the Ashby Trail was extended west through the city park and now connects with the Luverne Loop trail.

Instead of 1.35 miles long, the recreational trail is now 1.5 miles

New healing garden to comfort grieving parents

'Child's Remembrance Garden' to honor, remember loved ones

By Lori Sorenson

Twenty-eight years ago, Pat and Helen Saum's 15-year-old son, Jesse, died in a drowning accident in the Rock River at the city park.

On June 4 last year, Maggie and Nathan Siebenahler's daughter, Kimber, died when a knot developed in her umbilical cord. It was the day before her scheduled delivery.

Their losses and their grief are unique tragedies, but both families seek comfort for their pain.

"You never get over it," Maggie Siebenahler said. "You just live with it."

Pat Saum said, "You learn how to live after the loss. That's

Marlene Mann retires as district business manager

By Mavis Fodness

Luverne School District business manager Marlene Mann attended her last school board meeting Thursday night, July 22, capping a 55-year career.

Mann told board members, many of whom were students while she was on the job, that she found her job rewarding.

"Even though I wasn't in the classroom, I consider myself an educator," she said.

"We were putting things together and doing what could be done in giving all the kids the best education and the most opportunities, so they could go out the children who died, and they're now working on a healing garden to remember them.

"For every person who lost a child, we have heard over and over again, 'I don't want my child to be forgotten. I don't want people to forget their name," Pat Saum said.

Siebenahler got the idea from a "mothers' healing garden" in Dell Rapids where parents have a place to remember their children and children of others in the community.

"Some people don't find comfort in going to a cemetery, and this is just a peaceful non-denominational place," she said.

'Perfect. Peaceful. Quiet'

Local families are eyeing a piece of ground on the northwest side of the Catholic cemetery. The 140-foot by 60-still coming together the group decided to name it 'Children's Remembrance Garden," with the goal of dedicating a place where parents and families can go to honor the life of their child.

"The purpose of the garden isn't to be a memorial garden," Saum said. "We don't want it to feel like a cemetery."

Siebenahler said, "We want it to be a safe place to find comfort."

Plans call for a butterfly garden, a prayer wall, a pergola, a journal to write in, and a "little library" with lending material specific to grieving the death of a child. Also, someone is donating a pergola.

Luverne's Betty Mann said the garden will especially comfort those whose loved ones aren't buried locally.

"I just love that they're not forgotten.'

Public, private support

Organizers learned that the city didn't have a use for the odd-shaped property, so they approached council members at their June 20 meeting.

"We don't have to look very hard to find parents who are hurting," Saum told council members.

He acknowledged that cemeteries serve this purpose, but he said this project serves a different purpose.

"A cemetery is the place you go to recognize a child is gone," Saum said. "A healing garden is a place to recognize your child had lived."

The council took no action on the request Tuesday, but expressed support for the project.

"I think it's a great idea," said Mayor Pat Baustian.

A committee, including a council member, will handle long-term maintenance, and the group expressed interest in city hookups for water and electricity.

In addition to city support, local donors are providing financial support through the Luverne Area Community Foundation.

"We're so excited about it, and it's coming together so quickly," Saum said. "It's a beautiful spot. It's like it was meant to be."

He said the Child's Remembrance Garden is for families in and around Rock County and in neighboring communities like Pipestone and Adrian.

into the world with a good sound background."

He applauded her "tremendous job of giving sound financial advice, investing properly and keeping the school district in extremely sound financial shape."

The proclamation recognized that Mann "worked tirelessly and was loyally committed to the school district and the betterment of the Luverne community."

Path to becoming business manager

Marlene Kindt grew up in rural Hardwick, attending Hardwick Grade School through the eighth grade. She came to LHS as a freshman and graduated in 1964.

She married Gary Mann in 1965 and was busy caring for their infant daughter, Michele, in 1966 when school officials called and asked if she would help out in the high school library.

"It was the first time they had a para anywhere in the school," she said.

Mann wasn't returning the next school year but an opening in the counselor's office made her reconsider. Two years later she moved to a position in the superintendent's office.

Because of her willingness to learn and her attention to detail, she rose to the business manager position for the district, which today has annual expenditures of more than $15 million.

Mann has worked with six different superintendents and multiple school boards on district budgets. Over the years she adopted a consistent plan as she assumed more financial duties in the district office. "If you can look at the whole picture and have a plan, you can try and keep the levy as level and as consistent as possible," she said. "I think the school is the envy for many people. We have a top-notch teaching staff, paraprofessionals, cooks, custodians and bus drivers. ... We have it all."

things I enjoy with the idea of trying to balance that and still provide a good quality, above-the-norm education."

Mann's dedication to her job meant she spent evenings and weekends at school working on the numbers.

She thanks her family for understanding her dedication and giving her the time to complete the necessary financial tasks.

Under her financial watch, the district is wrapping up a $30 million construction and renovation project that includes a new large commons and kitchen, additional and remodeled classroom spaces and a performing arts center.

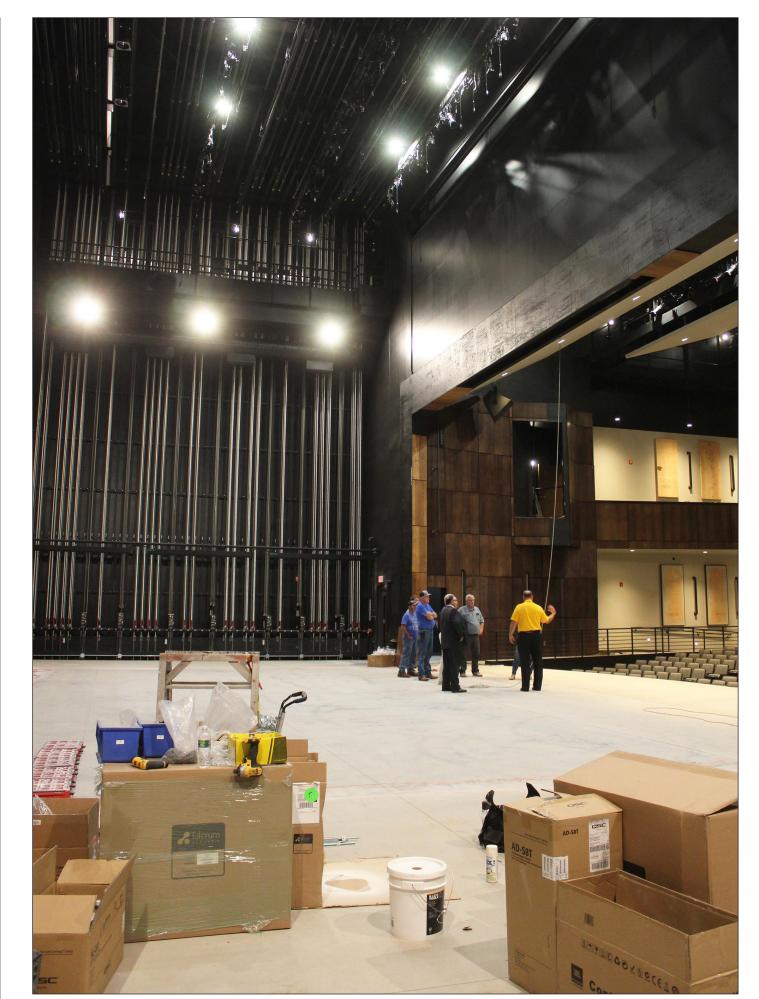

The new color scheme makes the building look different from when she attended LHS.

"I think the school is the envy for many people," Mann said. "We have a top-notch teaching staff, paraprofessionals, cooks, custodians and bus drivers. I want to say we have it all."

She said she's looking forward to retirement.

"There are a few things out there that I am looking forward to doing," she said, mentioning family at the top of the list.

Specifically, she'll attend her twin grandchil-

The $30 million project enters the final month of remodeling and construction work on the middle-high school facility.

"That's one of the challenges and one of the dren's high school activities in Brookings, South Dakota. She also plans to do some traveling.

She thanked board members and colleagues for their support.

"That is the rewarding part of hard work, being appreciated," she said. "If there's anything that can make you feel good, it's having someone know you've worked hard at something and it is appreciated."

Sanford Health implements requirement that employees get COVID-19 vaccine/from page 1A

Sanford's policy follows a national trend among hospitals and health systems that are implementing mandatory COVID-19 vaccine requirements for health care personnel.

Mayo Clinic, for example, followed suit this week, as have government entities including New York City and California state employees.

Crabtree said the reasons for requiring the vaccine for employees are outweighing doubts among a shrinking minority of those who have resisted getting the shot.

"The really important message is that the vaccine is safe," he said Monday. "I know there are questions people have had about it not being FDA approved. It's had emergency FDA authorization, but there's not a big difference."

He said the vaccine is standing the test of time, and is therefore gaining trust. "The more experience we have with this vaccine the more we understand that the safety we presumed early on has been confirmed over and over again," Crabtree said.

"If this weren't the case, we would not be requiring our employees to be vaccinated."

According to the American Health Care Association and National Center for Assisted Living, United States nursing homes showed a 96-percent decline in CO-VID-19 cases within three months of initial doses for nursing home residents and staff. COVID-related deaths in nursing homes declined 91 percent in the same timeframe.

Meanwhile, Sanford Health president and CEO Bill Gassen said the vaccine requirement for employees is an important step toward community immunity.

"This is the right thing to do for our patients and residents, people and communities," Gassen said. "As more variants continue to spread and threaten our communities, we must do everything we can to protect each other and our loved ones."

In sickness and in health

When getting a room means getting a hospital room

My husband, Jim, has been telling people that we celebrated our 35th wedding anniversary last week

by "getting a room" in Orange City, Iowa. Then he slyly adds, "a hospital room."

(Long story. Sanford and Avera are "out of network" for our insurance.)

It all started two weeks ago with what I thought was heartburn.

A week later, the "heartburn" returned with a vengeance. I was hot. I was cold. I was nauseous. I couldn't stand up. I couldn't lie down.

I was also at a cabin on Lake Minnewaska with my dear friend, Sherri the Nurse, who asked, "Shall we go to the emergency room now, or would you like to wait until the middle of the night?"

Nurses are good at making options clear.

The nice people in the ER gave me massive pain killers and diagnosed "heartburn" as a gallstone.

I would need surgery. The plan was to meet with a surgeon the following Thursday to schedule the surgery. But gallbladders do not care about plans. It attacked again Wednesday morning and even the painkillers didn't help this time.

And so, it was Jim's turn to drive to the ER in Orange

City as I clung to the dashboard with white knuckles and gritted teeth. They got me right in.

Because of my complex history of abdominal surgeries and because the gallbladder was already dying, the 45-minute surgery took 2 1/2 hours.

Jim began planning my funeral at the 90-minute mark just as he received word that "Brenda is OK, but it's complicated."

After the delay we were back together in "the room."

I had a hospital bed with all the bells and whistles. Buttons to call nurses. Buttons to lower my head or raise my feet. I had heated blankets. I had a staff tending to my needs and all the pain meds required to keep me comfortable.

Jim had a little window ledge with a foam mattress.

During the night I gazed past my IV pole to see his lanky frame clinging to the narrow ledge on which he slept. A bright light on the building's exterior shined in his eyes. His blanket was the size of a beach towel.

I adjusted my covers and thought, "In sickness and in health, Sweetie. Love you lots."

Have you ever wondered ...?

You have questions? We'll find answers through submissions to 'Curious Rock County'

Have you ever wondered about something you've seen or heard about in Rock County or have questions about a story you read in the Star Herald?

If so, we would like to answer questions on what you're curious about.

We're calling it "Curious Rock County."

It's not an original idea; we're borrowing it from the Star Tribune.

In 2019 Star Tribune editors launched "Curious Minnesota," which invites readers to submit questions, and reporters use those questions to research and report on stories.

Curious Minnesota is part of the metro paper's community-driven reporting project.

The Tribune answered questions such as "Why is a casserole called a 'hot dish' in Minnesota?" and "Why can't Minnesotans figure out how to zipper merge?"

STAR HERALD EDITORIAL

While these questions made stories in the Tribune and were featured on the newspaper's podcast, we would like questions focused on or in Rock County.

We may also want to talk with those who submit the questions, to find out more of why they're curious. We'll do the research and, if it's an answer worth printing, we'll put the story in the paper.

Each question submitted should include a name, phone number and an indication of whether or not you want credit for asking the question. We will not research anonymous questions.

For those who are curious, "hot dish" is simply a descriptive phrase originating in the late 1800s and early 1900s. Hot dish described a serving that was heated to keep food warm. Food writers later used hot dish to refer to a meal's warm entrée.

As far as zipper merging goes, the concept is a simple way to manage traffic when a lane is closed in work zones. Drivers remain in their respective lanes until they reach the designated merge point, and then they're supposed to take turns falling orderly in line.

Radisewitz: Never stop learning

To the Editor:

Albert Einstein stated, "Once you stop learning, you start dying." Having a thirst for knowledge keeps your mind sharp. Age is only a number. When you're over the hill, you pick up speed.

Here are three things I've learned this week. If you haven't got your three for the week, borrow one of these:

•When birds are migrating, they don't eat, and they sleep while flying. Source: my grandson.

•When someone is impaled, don't pull out the object. This week a fisherman had "bottom bouncer" weight (imagine a small spear) come out of the water and impale his heart. Good for him that his daughter, who was accompanying him, was an RN who knew better than to pull out the object.

Many of us have watched too

Lost purse brings realization 'there are still good people out there'

Just when you're about to give up on people in general, something happens and you realize there are still good people out there ... more than we realize.

As strange as what you're about to read may seem, it really happened.

A week or so ago on a Saturday, Mary and I thought we would take our side-by-side to Rowena, South Dakota, to the junk fest. We were going to zigzag our way over there, and we were about 3 miles out of town when Mary realized she forgot her purse at home. We decided it wasn't necessary to turn around to fetch the purse.

The junk fest was just that -a bunch of junk. We were about to head home when our daughter called and invited us to join her and her family at the farmers market at Falls Park in downtown Sioux Falls. So we headed that way.

We've never been to the Sioux Falls Farmers Market, and as it turned out, that was just the first stop before we headed to Phillips Avenue.

I was standing outside on the sidewalk while Mary and the granddaughters were in some sort of toy store. My phone rang. It was a name and number I didn't recognize, but I answered it anyway and I'm glad I did.

For What It's Worth

By Rick Peterson, general manager

The guy on the other end asked if I was Rick, and of course I said "Yes." I asked him why, and he asked if Mary Peterson was my wife. Of course I said, "Yes, why?" His answer floored me.

He said he had her purse. Someone found it at the farmers market and dropped it off at the Lewis Drug Store where he works.

I told him that was impossible because my wife left her purse at home in Luverne. He asked me if we live on Pine Drive, and I asked how he knew that.

He told me my name and address were on a pill bottle in the purse. By now I am thinking this is really weird.

I went into the toy store and found Mary. Putting the phone on speaker, I asked him to describe the purse. He did, and it was a perfect match to Mary's purse.

So how did someone find Mary's purse at the farmers market in downtown Sioux Falls and then take it to Lewis Drug on 41st and Marion Road?

The story turned a little more weird as we headed to Lewis Drug.

It was Mary's purse, and everything in the purse was accounted for. I asked the Lewis Drug Store guy if he knew the person who brought the purse in and why they would bring it all the way out to Marion Road.

He said he didn't know the person who dropped off the purse. He thought maybe they lived in the neighborhood, and because the pill bottle was from Lewis Drug, they brought it there. The Lewis Drug Store guy really went above and beyond to get in touch with us and return the purse to Mary.

ED FIS GEED

My name and address were on the pill bottle, and I am a Lewis Drug customer. He had looked me up in their data base for my phone number and called the number on file.

It turns out the number on file was our old landline number which we disconnected four years ago. He called the Lewis Drug Store in Luverne, explained the situation, and asked if they had my cell number on file, which they did. That is how he tracked me down, and we are so glad he did.

About the only explanation we can come up with as to how Mary's purse ended up at the farmers market is maybe she set the purse in the box of the side-by-side before we left for the junk fest and it rode all the way to Sioux Falls in the back. Someone walked by the side-byside at the farmers market, saw the purse sitting there, and didn't want someone else to take it. For whatever reason they turned it into the west side Lewis Drug Store.

Strange but true.

•If you're talking with someone and your mind, heart or gut tells you they're in a bad place mentally and possibly thinking about suicide, what do you do? Answer: Be direct and ask them, "Are you thinking about suicide?" They might seem offended but let them know that you love them, and this is important.

Asking about suicide doesn't plant any seeds in their mind about considering suicide in the future. Just the opposite, they can either say yes, they are considering suicide, at which time you can seek help (suicide hotline 800-273-8255) or no, they are not, and by talking about the problem it might help them work through the bad place they find themselves. Then finally you can say, would you do me a favor and tell me if you were ever considering suicide in the future? I-90 collision injures passengers in Suburban

By Lori Sorenson

Local emergency responders were dispatched to a personal injury crash involving two vehicles and four people on I-90 east of Luverne Monday afternoon.

The crash at mile marker 13 in the westbound lane was reported shortly after 3 p.m.

According to the Minnesota State Patrol, a Chevy Suburban, driven by Ericka Perez, 42, Pipestone, was traveling westbound when it collided with a westbound Peterbilt semitrailer driven by 46-year-old Terry Elliot Hubbard of Rushford, Minnesota.

Two juvenile passengers in the Suburban were transported to Sanford Luverne with what were believed to be non-lifethreatening injuries.

The report states that all involved were wearing seatbelts and alcohol was not believed to be a factor.

In addition to State Patrol, the Rock County Ambulance, Rock County Sheriff's Office, Adrian Ambulance and Luverne Fire Department assisted at the scene.

Motorcyclist in serious condition after crash

By Mavis Fodness

A Hills man was airlifted to a Sioux Falls hospital Wednesday, July 21, after colliding with a passenger car at an intersection in Martin Township.

Kelly Demuth, 65, was eastbound on 31st Street as a 2008 Mercury Grand Marquis, driven by Richard Teig, 66, of Slayton, was traveling south on 20th Avenue.

According to the Rock County

Sheriff's Office, Teig stopped at the intersection and proceeded south, failing to yield the right of way to Demuth.

Teig struck Demuth with the front of his passenger vehicle.

The crash occurred at 6:38 p.m., and glare from the evening sun may have been a factor in the crash.

The impact threw Demuth from the motorcycle, resulting in serious injuries. According to the report, excessive speed, distracted driving and alcohol were not contributing factors in the crash.

Teig and his passenger, Brittany Ruiter, 29, were not injured. The crash report indicated Demuth was not wearing a helmet.

The Grand Marquis and the 1962 motorcycle were severely damaged and both towed from the crash scene.

Zoo Man returns with wonders from the reptile world

Program encourages children, adults to read more from library

Story and photos by Mavis Fodness

Brent Mielke, the area's "Zoo Man," resumed his reptile shows this month, stopping in Luverne July 22 to promote the library's summer reading program.

Mielke said the go-ahead was given to his traveling education show after a 17-month hiatus due to the coronavirus pandemic. His zoo for the performance in Hawkinson Park featured a bearded dragon, a corn snake, a boa constrictor, a red-footed tortoise and a pair of royal pythons.

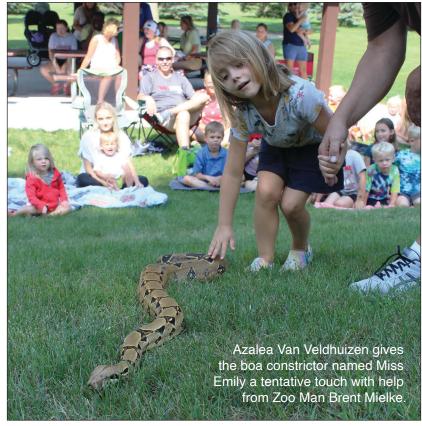

His "tales" focused on the "tails" of each of the reptiles. He explained how the length of the tail determines the gender of a corn snake (a short tail is a female) and how the red-foot tortoise's tail is only visible when angered.

He encouraged visiting the Rock County Library to learn more about mammals and reptiles.

"That's where you can read, read, read and read some more about what is known as the bearded dragon from Australia," Mielke said.

The children's summer reading program called "Reading Colors your World!" ends Friday.

1935: Ball profits used for infantile paralysis research

The following appeared in The Rock County Herald on Feb. 22, 1935.

Birthday Ball Shows $157.15 Net Proceeds

Total Receipts From Sale of Over 800 Tickets, $215,10; Funds Will be Used for Health Activities

A financial report covering receipts and disbursements for the President Roosevelt birthday ball, held in Luverne on January 30th, was presented yesterday by F. A. Leicher, treasurer for the 1935 event. Total receipts from ticket sales were $215.10, more than 800 tickets having been sold, and net proceeds amounted to $157.15, after the various expenses had been met.

Items listed under disbursements were: Orchestra, $25.00; police, $2.00; announcement, $1.00; postage, cards, etc., $8.80; printing, $11.15, and use of the Armory, $10.00. Disbursements totalled $57.95.

Under the same arrangement that prevailed throughout the country, seventy percent of the net proceeds is retained to promote relief and rehabilitation

REMEMBER WHEN

10 years ago (2011)

•Beginning this fall parents of Luverne students will use a new information system to follow their children's academic progress. The program, Infinite Campus, replaces the former JMC system.

Luverne Middle/High School Principal Ryan Johnson said the data manager system will be easier for parents, students and teachers to use.

"The layout of the new program is more intuitive," Johnson said, "It's web-based so anyone can reach it if they have Internet access."

25 years ago (1996)

•As of Monday, The Pantry Café in downtown Luverne has locked up its doors and boarded up its windows.

The longtime restaurant was best known for its soup and sandwich specials at noon. It was also a popular coffee stop for downtown shoppers.

50 years ago (1971)

•Miss Rochelle Jeffer, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jeffer, Route 1, Luverne, found herself literally "up a tree" Thursday afternoon.

Rochelle was staying with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smidstra, when she decided to climb a tree on their yard at 204 Mead Court. Quicker than you could say, "There is nothing like a tree," Rochelle found her boot stuck between two big limbs.

Grandma and Grandpa Smidstra were unable to free the girl and so the Luverne Police were called onto the scene. Officer Keith Aanenson surveyed the situation and with the aid of Toby Anderson of the Luverne Street Department obtained a wedge-shaped hydraulic jack.

After about a half hour of captivity the tree was finally forced to release the little girl.

•Old news proved to be good news for Rock county taxpayers this week when it was announced that again, Rock county had the lowest average tax levy in the state.

Rock county has held this honor for many years, but rising costs of government have caused the mill rate to increase to 58.25 or within a fraction of the next lowest county, Murray county, where the mill-rate is now 59.11.

•Petroleum of a high quality is claimed to have been located on the former Bockwoldt farm in Springwater township, owned by Julius F. Eichner.

T. B. Courthard, a geologist from the Oklahoma and Texas a survey of the Eichner farm says in his report that there is oil at a 600-foot depth.

Although he cannot state definitely in what quantities it will be found he is certain that there is enough to make a paying proposition to drill for it.

Mr. Eichner and family moved to the old Bockwoldt farm, on section 22, Springwater, three years ago. From time to time members of the family noticed that the water taken from the well for drinking purposes had a film of oil on it and at times there was so much oil present of the water that it was unfit to drink.

Mr. Eichner, after running down every unnatural clue as to the reason for the oil being on the water, finally decided that the water itself must be running through a basin of oil under ground.

Working on this theory, Mr. Eichner sent samples of the film of oil to the Iowa State experiment station where it was reported that the petroleum was of a high quality, containing paraffine, vaseline, lubricating oil, kerosene and allied compounds.

More than 110 students participated in vacation Bible school at First Baptist Church in Luverne July 19-21. The theme was "Mystery Island," and students grappled with questions like, "Is there only one God?" "Who is he?" "What is he like?" "Does he love me?" "Can I know him?" On Mystery Island, students tracked down the truth about "the one and only God" and gained a better understanding of "the Creator God and the salvation he offers through Jesus Christ."

Sharon Becker

Sharon Faye Becker, 70, of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, died peacefully Wednesday, July 21, 2021, in her home surrounded by family.

A celebration of her life was Wednesday, July 28, at Celebrate Church in Sioux Falls.

Sharon Doeksen was born on July 7, 1951, to Peter and Alma Doeksen in Luverne. She graduated from Luverne High School in 1969.

In 1970 she married Daniel Becker and they were blessed with a daughter, Jill. They made their home in various locations throughout their marriage, and after 15 years of marriage Dan and Sharon divorced.

Sharon pursued her associate's degree from the University of South Dakota, graduating in 1993. She loved her new profession and continued with dental hygiene her family, especially her grandkids. She loved her grandchildren and would do anything for them.

Sharon is survived by her daughter and family, Jill and Shawn Schmidt; grandchildren Kaleigh, Samuel and William Schmidt, all of Sioux Falls; her brother, Donald Doeksen of St. Paul; sisters Patricia (Garlan) Hulbert of Princeton, Linda (Robert) Christensen of Sioux Falls, Diane (Kevin) Erickson of Rochester and Jodi (Gary) Messerich of Eagan; dear friend Lin (David) Starks of Sioux Falls; and many special friends, nieces and nephews.

Sharon was preceded in death by her parents; her great-niece, Lynn Zimmer; and her nephew, Derek Christensen.

Arrangements were pro-

Kaylena Riendeau of Brandon suggested her grandmother's blueberry dessert for the Vasshaus Candle Company contest.

"Her suggestion changed the idea of what this contest would be," Marshall said. "To take something special to one family — create and share that memory — was unexpected."

The candle scent called "Grandma's Blueberry Dessert" made its retail debut Saturday.

The display included a picture of Riendeau with her grandmother, Rose Marie Stob, and a copy of the dessert recipe in her grandma's handwriting.

The number of Grandma's Blueberry Dessert glass candle jars quickly dwindled as Riendeau, her mother, Laurie Oppold, and her aunt, Diane Even, stopped into the downtown Luverne store.

The candle's smell of canned blueberries, honey, and cinnamon with a touch of citrus thrilled the family.

"It's like bringing her back," Riendeau said of her grandma, who was head cook at Milaca High School and died in 2014 at age 81.

Her dessert was a much-sought-after family favorite, especially among the cousins.

"If you made it to the fridge to attempt to sneak (a taste) of the dessert, and the pan was gone, you knew it was game time," Riendeau said.

A game of catch-meif-you-can ensued as one cousin, with dessert pan in hand, would be chased around the backyard. Grandma Rose would often break up the chase by Mavis Fodness photos/0729 Grandmas Blueberry Dessert Grandma Rose's blueberry dessert finds new life in a candle scent created by Vasshaus Candle Company of Luverne. Kaylena Riendeau (center, holding a picture of herself with her grandmother, Rose Marie Stob,) entered the company's "Suggest a Scent" contest. Her suggestion won and "Grandma's Blueberry Dessert" is now generating memories for family members for Riendeau's mother, Laurie Oppold (left), and aunt, Diane Even. Middle: Vasshaus Candle Company owner Shawna Marshall (left) listens to the stories Laurie Oppold, Diane Even and Kaylena Riendeau share Saturday morning about their late mom and grandmother. bringing a second pan filled with the baked dessert.

"If you say 'blueberry dessert' to any one of my kids, they would all have a story to tell about her dessert," Even said.

Marshall and her partner, Jesse Booker, attempted to create a candle scent with blueberry before the contest, but with limited success.

With the handwritten recipe, they added an underlying fragrance of baked blueberries.

"We loved the scent but we love the story," Marshall said.

For her suggestion, Riendeau won $50 and her entry made into candles.

Another "Suggest a Scent" contest is planned for this fall, and more recipes from Grandma Rose may be submitted.

"To create a candle from a special dish is absolutely remarkable," Riendeau said.

"It's a way to honor Grandma Rose in a beautiful and unique way."

Manure Demo Day and commercial recertification set for Aug. 2

The Rock County Soil and Water Conservation District will be part of a first-ever Manure Demo Day Tuesday, Aug. 10, at the West Central Research and Outreach Center in Morris.

The day will be broken into two sessions, a morning recertification and an afternoon free session for the public with demonstrations.

Afternoon session for demonstrations

The afternoon field session is free and open to the public, beginning at noon. Registration is not required for the afternoon session, but attendees must check in upon arrival.

In-field demonstrations will begin at 1:15 p.m. Exhibitors and vendors will be on site to answer questions and provide product information.

Current exhibitors include Artex Manufacturing, Balzer Inc., Bazooka Farmstar and Soil Warrior.

Vendors and exhibitors interested in joining should contact Brenda Postels, UMN Extension, at 320-203-6063 or postoo60@umn.edu.

The field day is organized by the University of Minnesota Extension, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Minnesota Custom Applicators Association, Rock County SWCD and Stearns County SWCD.

Rock County SWCD/ Land Management can be reached at 507-283-8862 or www.rockswcd.org.

Pre-register by Aug. 3 for morning training

The morning session will consist of recertification training for commercial animal waste technicians (CAWTs) and includes lunch.

In order to cover costs associated with the training, the fee for the morning session is $10.

Space is limited to the first 100 people for the CAWT session. Preregister by Aug. 3, by visiting https://z.umn. edu/MDD2021. This is the only in-person CAWT recertification workshop of 2021.

The CAWT session will begin promptly at 8:30 a.m. and will include a program update, MPCA CAFO permit update, information on manure application timing, calibrating manure spreading equipment, tips for minimizing soil compaction and a safety walk-through.

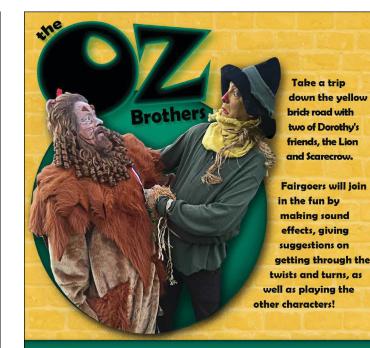

Similar to past CAWT recertification training, attendance will be monitored by the MDA; participants should bring CAWT licenses.

Senior Legion team wins Sub-State championship

Post 123 qualifies for Division II state tournament this weekend

By Jason Berghorst

The Luverne Post 123 Senior American Legion baseball team won the Southwest Sub-State championship in Wabasso Saturday.

Luverne earned a 3-2 win over Springfield Friday before defeating Blue Earth/Winnebago twice Saturday night.

With the weekend sweep,

Post 123, 11-4 on the season, qualifies for the 2021 Minnesota State American Legion Senior Division II State Tournament this weekend in Sacred Heart.

Luverne was the reigning Southwest Sub-State champions after playing in the 2019 state tournament. The 2020 Legion baseball playoffs were canceled because of the coronavirus pandemic.

"It was a great weekend overall," said Luverne Senior Legion coach Codie Zeutenhorst.

"I was always confident in our pitching options, even when we fell into the elimination bracket," he said.

"We kept our errors to a minimum for the most part and got the hits we needed to support some great pitching. When you do that, usually good things happen."

Luverne 3, Springfield 2

Luverne entered the final weekend of the Southwest Sub-State Tournament in Wabasso needing three consecutive wins to reach the state tournament.

Luverne to face Wadena in opener at state tourney

By Jason Berghorst

It will be Southwest vs. Northeast in the quarter final round of the Minnesota American Legion Senior Division II State Tournament in Sacred Heart this weekend.

Luverne, champion of the Southwest sub-state division, will face Wadena, winner of the Northeast sub-state division, at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

The winner of that contest will face Minnewaska or Atwater Saturday at 5 p.m.

The loser moves to the consolation bracket and a game at 9 a.m. Saturday.

The championship game of the eight-team tournament is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at 1:30 p.m.

The Senior Division II state tournament also includes teams from Roseau, Holy Family (Chanhassen), LaCrescent and Sacred Heart/MACCRAY.

The Senior Division I state tournament, featuring the larger schools in the state, begins Thursday in the St. Cloud area.

According to the American Legion, Minnesota has over 370 Legion baseball teams with over 5,000 young people participating this year.

Minnesota has the largest Legion Baseball program in the country and set a new record for number of teams this season.

Luverne Junior Legion ends season in championship game of the game in the bottom of the first inning. Jacob Stroh started the game on the mound for Luverne and pitched well for the victors, giving up only one run and striking out eight batters in 5 1/3 innings of work. Kaden Anderson came in to relieve Stroh for the last one 1 1/3 innings, giving up no runs. Anderson led the offense for Luverne with three hits and two runs. Riley Sneller had two hits in the game and scored once. Connor Connell and Stroh also plated runs for Luverne.

By Jason Berghorst The Luverne Junior American Legion baseball team entered Sunday's championship game of the Southwest Sub-State Tournament undefeated after besting Blue Earth, Lamberton, and St. James earlier in the tournament. A win against St. James in the noon game at Redbird Field would send the team to the Minnesota Junior Legion Baseball State Tournament.

St. James 3, Luverne 2 Entering Sunday's championship game at Redbird Field. Luverne and St. James had played twice during the season with each team winning once. It took an extra eighth inning to determine the better team after neither team scored in the scheduled seven innings of the noon contest. When St. James scored three runs in the top of the eighth, Luverne had to answer with at least that many to keep the game going and avoid a second game the same day.

A Luverne loss would cause a second game between the same two teams with the winner advancing to the state tournament.

In the first game, Luverne came up just short, losing 3-2 in an extra inning contest.

St. James controlled much of the second game and won 6-1, earning a trip to the state tournament and ending Luverne's season.

"We had a good season as a whole," said Jared Pick, Luverne Junior Legion head coach.

"We won quite a few

Overgaard, Gaul win at Rock Rapids speedway Friday

By Jason Berghorst

Two Luverne race car drivers earned checkered flags at Rapid Speedway in Rock Rapids, Iowa, Friday night.

Victories by Scott Overgaard and Eric Gaul highlighted the results of Rock County drivers at four area dirt tracks over the last two weekends.

Rapid Speedway

Gaul followed up a secondplace finish July 16 by winning the Hobby Stocks A feature race Friday night.

Overgaard, who placed fourth in the Stock Cars feature July 16, also found his way to victory lane Friday.

Thomas Kracht, also of Luverne, placed third in the same race.

Brandon Boeve, Beaver Creek, finished second in the Sportsman's class Friday night in Rock Rapids.

Murray County Speedway

Dylan Fitzpatrick, Magnolia, highlighted Rock County results at Murray County Speedway in Slayton Friday night.

A 3-2 win over Springfield Friday night ended up being the closest contest of the weekend.

Luverne got the early lead when Bailey Cowell scored off a sacrifice fly by Colby Crabtree in the first inning.

The game remained 1-0 until Springfield scored one run in the fourth inning to tie the contest.

In the sixth inning, Springfield took a brief 2-1 lead before Luverne rallied back in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Luverne tied the game at two before Crabtree hit another sacrifice fly to score the go-ahead run.

When Luverne held Springfield scoreless in the top of the seventh inning, the game ended 3-2.

Ethan Beyer was the starting pitcher for Luverne. He pitched 5 2/3 innings, giving up two runs on six hits. Beyer struck out four batters.

Casey Sehr picked up the win on the mound after pitching the final $1 \frac{1}{3}$ innings.

Sehr allowed no hits and no runs and struck out two batters.

Offensively, hits were hard to come by in the game, but Luverne made the most of the hits and walks they earned.

Cowell, Beyer and Cade Wenninger each had one hit in the contest. Cowell scored two runs for the victors and Crabtree added two RBIs.

On Saturday, July 17, Blue Earth/Winnebago sent Luverne into the elimination bracket of the Southwest Sub-State Ttournament with a 9-5 victory over Luverne.

After Luverne defeated Springfield July 23, the team would have to defeat BE/W, still undefeated in the tournament, twice on Saturday in order to win the championship of the double elimination tournament.

With an 18-7 victory over BE/W in the first game, Post 123 made it clear they were up to the challenge.

Luverne scored its first two uns of the game in the top of the second inning when Sehr and Connor Connell scored off of RBIs by Braydon Ripka and Cowell respectively.

Redbirds open 13C playoffs vs. Adrian A's

By Jason Berghorst

The Luverne Redbirds amateur baseball team finished the regular season with a 19-5 overall record, an 18-2 conference record, and the top seed from the Gopher League.

The Redbirds, along with the top-seeded Windom Pirates of the First Nite League, earned byes in the league playoff round.

Results of the bestof-three games league playoffs determined the six teams that will join Luverne and Windom in the Region 13C tournament.

The Milroy Irish, Hadley, Jackson, Lakefield, Pipestone and Adrian advanced from the league playoffs to qualify for the tournament, which begins Wednesday, July 28.

Luverne was voted the overall top seed for the Region 13C tournament and will face the Adrian A's, the eighthseeded team, in the best-of-three first round.

Game 1 is Wednesday, July 28, at 7:30 p.m. at Redbird Field in Luverne. Game 2 is in Adrian at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Game 3, if necessary, will be at Redbird Field Sunday at 2 p.m.

The Redbirds faced Adrian in the first round last year as well, winning the series in two games in 2020.

"They're a tough team with some real quality pitchers that can give any team a battle," said Luverne player-manager Brooks Maurer.

"I know they'll be fired up and ready to play us."

LHS runners attend 13th annual cross country summer camp

The Luverne High School cross country team participated in its 13th annual team camp at Newton Hills State Park near Canton, South Dakota, July 21-24.

"Running is, believe it or not, probably the smallest part of the camp," said head coach Pete Janiszeski.

"The majority of the time is spent playing games and getting to know each other as teammates and building strong relationships and bonds with each other."

The team also sets individual and team goals and participates in a session on developing a positive mindset and how to handle and overcome adversity during the season as well as in life.

"Another highlight the kids would probably say is the food and relationships they build," Janiszeski said.

Consider putting land in CRP, to benefit area wildlife

Every time the United States Department of Agriculture announces additional acres for the CRP program, sportsmen and women across the country cheer.

The federal Conservation Reserve Program pays farmers to take marginal cropland out of production and plant it to native grass and flower cover.

Contracts range from 10-15 years with rental rates as high as $350 per acre per year and as low as $42 per acre per year, depending on the land. It generally guarantees a profit on those acres each year.

Without CRP those marginal acres might make a great crop one year and then be losing acres for the producer for the next nine vears in a row.

That's why CRP is cheered as a win-win for all involved.

Now comes the difficult part.

The USDA recently agreed to open these set aside acres for having and grazing during our current extreme drought period in order to provide much needed forage for livestock producers.

Nobody with a functioning brain would or could think this is a bad idea. If you have cows and own land in CRP, you should be able to utilize that forage for your own personal profitability during severe droughts.

As someone with no livestock, I struggle with farmers having their CRP and as much of their neighbor's they can get their hands on and then selling it to livestock people at an inflated price. When you cash the CRP check, you have been compensated for the use of that ground for that year. Another place that livestock producers can and do go to get much needed forage in extreme situations are wildlife management areas. These are acres that have been purchased from willing sellers and planted to wildlife cover and are open to public hunting. They are managed by the DNR.

Тне OUTDOORS

By Scott Rall

practice has been around for quite a long time.

The haying of public land hunting acres occurs where the having can actually benefit the wildlife habitat in the long term. Haying mimics grazing and can help reduce woody cover encroachment and set back invasive smooth brohm grass.

It can also increase species diversity and stand vitality. Having and grazing can benefit wildlife habitat if done correctly and timely. Haying public wildlife lands usually impacts a portion of the unit and not the whole thing. Haying on public lands, at least the ones I have seen, usually end up being about 30-acre efforts.

CRP and public wildlife lands can also be grazed, but the cost of moving livestock, putting up fences and providing water usually make haying more costeffective than grazing.

As pastures and traditional hay ground-type acres (marginal production acres) have been converted to row crops, totaling thousands of acres across southwest Minnesota over the past three decades, available forage has steeply declined and I see no end in sight for this trend.

Haying CRP set aside acres and public conserva tion lands should never be considered a long-term solution to forage shortages, which seem to happen almost every year. The key here is balance. I have said all along that conservation and agriculture/livestock production can and should live in harmony during both good and bad. Conservation having and grazing can benefit both habitat and producers. But there needs to be a longer-term plan to address what seems like constant and ongoing emergency events taking place on CRP and public hunting lands become the exceptions and not the norm. A drought in Montana should not result in having CRP acres in Minnesota.

The Minnesota DNR has in place programs that allow for producers to hav permanently protected wildlife cover during droughts.

We can be whiners

We can be whiners, can't we? Nothing is perfect, especially the weather. It's always too rainy, or too dry, or too cloudy, or too sunny! As the heat of summer really begins to beat down, I've found myself whining about it more and more. One biblically bad whiner was the prophet Jonah. He whined about preaching to the Ninevites and then went so far as to try to run away from God to avoid doing it. And then when he does preach to them and they repent, what does Jonah do? He sits down to whine some more! Jonah 4:8 says, "When the sun rose, God appointed a scorching east wind, and the sun east wind, and the sun beat down on the head of Jonah so that he was faint. And he asked that he might die and said, 'It is better for me to die than to live.'''

As Jonah was pouting, sitting on a hill that overlooked the city, the Lord caused a plant to grow which gave Jonah shade. Then the Lord sent a worm which ate the plant and the next day it had withered. God points out to Jonah that he's upset that the plant died, even though he did nothing to make it grow and put no effort into keeping it alive. The Lord had put effort into the people of Nineveh, just as He has with everyone. He cares for them and provides for the faithful and faithless alike. "He desires all people to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth," (1 Tim. 2:4). He cared for the 120,000 non-believers in that city and went to great lengths to bring them the Word, despite their wickedness and despite an unwilling servant. Are there people that we desire God's grace not to reach? Do we see some people as less deserving of God's forgiveness? When Christ lived His perfect life, He didn't do so with only believers in mind. What motivated Him was His great love for all people of all time. He thought about the fact that through His work, God's grace would be offered to all. When Jesus' blood flowed out onto the cross, it was innocent, holy blood, valuable enough to pay for every sin ever committed. Jonah's three days in the belly of the great fish pointed ahead to Christ's three days in the tomb, and His victorious resurrection. Through faith in Jesus as our Savior, you and I inherit eternal life. What a message! What a wonderful gift to bring to those around us! We have the opportunity to share this incredible account with others. And God can use His Word that we share to create faith in someone's heart that enables them to enjoy heaven forever. This isn't a burden we feel compelled to accomplish, but a joy. It is a way that we can respond to the Lord's grace and mercy that He has shown to us. Praise God that He did not neglect us, but sent His Son Jesus as our Savior, and made us His children through the waters of baptism. May He bless each of us with opportunities to share His great love.
