

'Max Your Community' fund drive starts Nov. 1

LACF encourages rural Rock County towns to start local endowments

By Lori Sorenson

The Luverne Area Community Foundation is launching a fundraising campaign Nov. 1 through Nov. 11 called "Max Your Community."

The effort picks up where Luverne's legendary Red Arrow program left off in 2019 when it dissolved after 55 years of collaborative local philanthropy.

Red Arrow was launched in 1965 by a group of Luverne bankers, doctors, attorneys, clergymen, manufacturers, farmers, retailers and stay-athome moms.

They wanted to form a local charity to bring all local charities together under a single fundraising campaign — rather than each group competing for the same dollars with individual drives.

The need for centralized, collaborative fundraising is as strong today as it was 55 years ago, and LACF director Emily Crabtree said the foundation is well-positioned to build on those principles with modern-day applications.

"We're calling it Max Your Displays are still going up, each designed and constructed by various departments of the Veterans Home and by organizations and individuals. This one, put up by the business office staff members of the Luverne facility, features crows wearing masks that are situated to look like beaks on crows. The sign on the display says, "Crow-vid ... City sells three industrial park lots for local development

By Lori Sorenson

Three more lots in the industrial park have been sold for development according to action at Monday's meeting of the Luverne Economic Development Authority.

The board approved the sale of two lots in the Walnut Second Addition to Anthony Graphenteen for storage units and one lot in the Mayes Second Addition to Backdraft Manufacturing for an expansion.

The LEDA conducted a public hearing at the start of its meeting in order to sell the city property to the two individuals. No one from the public attended.

Graphenteen intends to construct a 60-by-140-foot storage building for his business, Luverne Storage Rentals LLC.

It will include 28 cold storage units with overhead rollup doors. Sixteen will be 12-by-30-foot units, six will be 10-by-24-foot and six will be 10-by-20-foot. According to the terms of

Turnout light for H-BC referendum information meeting

By Mavis Fodness

Given sparse attendance at the meetings, voters have few concerns or questions about the H-BC district's proposed levy referendum renewal.

School board, staff and administration hosted information dum of $897.15 per student. A second question on the ballot asks to add an inflationary factor to that amount. Inflation percentages averaged 1.87 percent over the last 10 years.

In recent weeks, school officials have sent information to It includes a chart that shows how much tax a home, garage and one-acre of land would be levied annually, based on market value. Ag land is not subject to this school levy property tax.

Superintendent Todd Holthaus said a few residents sent school officials to guess at what questions voters have in the community.

In his 15-minute presentation about the district's current levy, Holthaus said $300,000 in general fund revenue is generated annually.

H-BC after-school program fills child care need

Enrichment program offers H-BC parents safe, consistent after-school care

By Mavis Fodness

A new after-school enrichment program offers Hills-Beaver Creek Elementary parents safe and consistent after-school care for their children.

The fact that kindergarten through fifthgrade students enjoy the program's activities is a bonus.

Eight-year-old Addison Sammons is one of 11 students enrolled in the Patriot Enrichment Afterschool Care.

"She's had a lot of fun," said her mother, Holly Sammons.

The program provides the Sammons family of rural Steen a consistent location for after-school care for Addison while her older siblings participate in after-school activities.

The program provides a stable afterschool option to H-BC elementary families through the district's community education program.

"It's nice to have a fail-safe plan," Sammons said.

Almost daily, Sammons and her husband, Derek, would coordinate who would pick Addison up from school — whether it was a grandparent, the bus or a parent.

The after-school program opened with the new school year on Sept. 7.

Coordinator Tedra Voss closed her Hills in-home day care when she accepted the school district position.

Speaker urges H-BC students to 'find harness' in roller coaster of their lives

By Mavis Fodness

Motivational speaker Cory Greenwood encouraged Hills-Beaver Creek students to write on an index card one thing that gives them pain and discard that pain into a box.

Dozens of students rose from the gymnasium bleachers in Hills Monday morning to do just that.

The index cards join about 20,000 cards Greenwood has collected since 2019 when he began speaking about his own personal experiences.

He offered tips on how to find positive solutions to life's problems and push past the limiting beliefs people put on themselves.

Dressed in a black T-shirt with the words, "The World needs You," Greenwood introduced the sixth- through 12th-grade students and staff to various experiences in his life growing up in Grand Meadow, Minnesota.

"When I was your age, I thought the most important thing was what everybody in this room thought of me," he said.

the budget, we will have to make reductions," he said.

Because the majority of the district's budget is salaries, staff reductions would take place, resulting in larger class sizes and fewer options in programming, technology and staff development.

The current levy was adopted in 2012 and will expire in a year.

If passed at the Nov. 2 special election, the current levy will continue from 2023-2033.

Board member Harley Fransman indicated several residents approached him with questions about the inflationary factor question.

Holthaus confirmed that both questions must pass in order for the district's levy to be adjusted annually for inflation.

Adrian, Edgerton and Ellsworth districts have inflationary levies in their districts.

At the information session in Beaver Creek were board members Harley Fransman, Tami Rauk, Ethan Rozeboom and Tim Bosch.

The district's business manager Amanda Rozeboom and high school principal Andrew Kellenberger were also present to answer questions.

Construction, estimated to cost $232,500, is expected to begin this fall and be completed by Spring 2022.

Patriot Enrichment Afterschool Care is available school days from 3:15 to 5:30 p.m.

Voss's previous child care experience is a plus. "I want them to have a place after school where they are comfortable and loved," she said.

Students enjoy a snack before embarking on a 30-minute physical activity, which often means they head outdoors to the playground.

"I figure they are in school all day and they need that release," Voss said.

Back indoors, they settle into a 30-minute enrichment activity at which time students can finish

The students have free time in the final moments of the day before they're picked up.

The new program differs from an after-school service H-BC offered a decade ago in that students now have enrichment activities.

A $1,000 grant from Sioux Valley Energy will be used to buy materials for the program.

H-BC is currently looking for an assistant director, which would increase enrollment capacity from 15 to 30 students.

Cost is $10 per day for the first child or a yearly family rate of $1,550. A daily drop-in rate is available at $15 per child.

run when donors have the opportunity to give to their specific communities within Rock County," Crabtree said.

"We hold a fund for Hills, Beaver Creek, Hardwick, Magnolia, Jasper, Steen and Kenneth. They have an opportunity to hold a $10,000 endowment if they can raise $5,000."

The LACF will match $5,000 to any community that raises $5,000.

"We want to show the outer perimeter of the county that we believe in their communities. We work for them and we believe in their long-term sustainability."

With an endowment, the principle remains in the account, and interest it generates is available for use.

Communities are still eligible to apply for funds through the LACF community grant program, which will receive 1 percent of Max Your Community proceeds.

The 11-day fund drive got a pre-start kickoff with businesses Tuesday, Oct. 5, when LACF hosted morning coffee and after-5 cocktails to share information about Max Your Community.

Lincoln Street Warehouse hosted the LACF business socials, which brought together Chamber leaders, business leaders, LACF staff and Crabtree's father, John Bowron, who renovated the Lincoln Street warehouse for his collector car restoration hobby.

Following Red Arrow's mode of operation, LACF seeks to reach donors through the employees of Rock County businesses.

If businesses match their employees' donations, they'll get free air time during a radio-thon on the final day of the campaign in the LACF office next to the Palace Theatre at Main Street and Freeman Avenue.

Luverne's KQAD will broadcast live from LACF from 2 to 6 p.m. when participating businesses can share their stories of community giving on air.

They'll also receive a window sign that states "I Maxed My Community" to encourage other nonprofit solicitors to apply for grants through LACF.

The goal is to raise $100,000 countywide.

"Listen in and join us on Nov. 11 to help us reach our goal," Crabtree said. "The more we're giving all together, the better we'll be altogether."

Gifts can be mailed or dropped off Nov. 1-11.

"Most importantly, you will be a part of creating health and vitality in your community through partnership with LACF and local nonprofits," Crabtree said.

She said Max Your Community is a way to launch the countywide fund drive and also honor Red Arrow's history.

"Donors are still looking for places to go; their recipients are wondering if they'll get their Red Arrow checks," Crabtree said.

For information on how to support the effort, the LACF phone number is 507-220-2424, or email emily@LACF.org.

The Max Your Community 11-day fund drive kicked off Tuesday, Oct. 5, when Luverne Area Community Foundation director Emily Crabtree hosted morning coffee and after-5 cocktails to share information about the campaign. The groups met at Lincoln Street Warehouse, which Crabtree's father, John Bowron, renovated for his collector car restoration hobby and storage rentals. He bought the building from Big Top Tents and Events, which moved to the former Bomgaars building on West Hatting Street. Before that, Green Earth Players Community Theatre had the warehouse for rehearsal space and storage for stage props and costumes.

LEDA approves demolition grants for house and three sheds

By Lori Sorenson

The Luverne Economic Development Authority approved a request by Steven Aning for a $3,000 residential demolition grant to demolish an old house at 211 South East Park Street.

Aning reports the house has a failing roof that has allowed interior water damage, and ceilings and floors are falling down. The structure is substandard and irreparable, and the LEDA approved grant funds for its demolition. The action comes on the heels of action at the last EDA meeting when the board approved three other demolition grant requests, in these cases for accessory structures that qualified for $1,500 grants. Jim Rockman is demolishing an old barn at 308 N. Blue Mound Avenue. Rockman reports the old barn is dilapidated and substandard and the cost of repairing it far outweighs the value of the existing structure. It is also becoming a safety hazard. Michael Walgrave is demolishing a shed at 714 West Warren Street. Walgrave reports the structure is dilapidated and substandard with a leaky roof, no foundation, a rotting floor and evidence of termites. Vonda Klarenbeek is demolishing an accessory structure at 204 North McKenzie.

Barber Shop gets grant

In other action at the Monday, Oct. 11, meeting, the LEDA approved funds for a new business sign for Honor Barber Shop LLC at 118 North Freeman Avenue.

Eric Oye submitted an application for a façade improvement exterior signage project for his barber shop that occupies the main floor commercial space in the apartment building.

Did the stuff already hit the fan?

Preppers think it might have

А number of people I know have become "preppers." According to Oxford, a prepper is "a person who believes a catastrophic disaster or emergency is likely to occur in the future and makes active preparations for it, typically, by stockpiling food, ammunition, and other supplies." Some of the people I know would take issue with the phrase "a disaster is likely to occur" and replace it with the phrase "a disaster is in progress."

I had coffee a few weeks ago with a school cook and a hospital cook from two different states. Both said it's become difficult to fulfill menu offerings because "the stuff just doesn't come in." Orders that used to be shy one item are now shy by six.

A manufacturing plant manager said her company can't get the metals it needs to manufacture the nuts and bolts it produces.

A guy wanting to stripe a parking lot said there is a shortage of parking lot striping paint.

A pharmacist friend who makes custom medicines said her products are ruined when the delivery service, which is short of truck drivers, simply does not show up to pick up the order. "They don't even call to say they can't do it," she said. (She used other words, too, but this is a family newspaper.)

The day preppers are prepping for is the day 'the stuff hits the fan.' The day that you and I find the grocery store shelves empty is the day they survey their hidden stash of canned goods and high-protein dried goods.

This is the world the preppers are getting ready for. Not the world where you can't get parking lot striping paint, but the world where you can't get employees or bread.

Free, reduced meals provide more than just free food to students

All families of school-aged children urged to fill out form by Friday, Oct. 15

If you have a school-aged child, you may be aware that school meals are free for all students this school year regardless of household income, due to a federally funded U.S. Department of Agriculture program.

Star Herald PINION

This ensures Minnesota kids get the nutrition they need to thrive in another pandemic school year, but it may also mean that fewer families are filling out the Application for Educational Benefits (AEB).

This may hurt districts and families.

Sometimes referred to as the free-and-reduced-price meals application, the AEB is a household form for families enrolled in any Minnesota school district.

In a non-pandemic year, this program covers the cost of school meals for qualifying families - but in any year (including this one), this application provides much more than just free meals.

The application generates funding for districts, schools, students and families - including personal benefits like free bus cards, discounted internet services, and discounted fees associated with athletics, standardized tests and college applications, and much more.

I lead Second Harvest Heartland's Child Hunger team (www.2harvest.org), and we want to help make all residents aware of the application's benefits for both families and schools.

When families fill out the AEB form and qualify, not only do they receive direct personal benefits outlined above, but it also helps fund important districtwide and schoolwide technology resources, student support services, field trips and more.

When everyone fills out the AEB, schools are better equipped to provide all students with the high-quality education they deserve. If households do not qualify for any benefits, there is no penalty or risk in applying - and you can reapply at any point in the school year if income changes for any reason.

Eligibility is good for one school year, which is why it's important to fill it out every year, to ensure that both your family and your school district are receiving the maximum benefits.

Contact your local school district today and ask about the AEB/ free and reduced meal form.

The deadline to fill out, complete and return the 2021-22 AEB application is Friday, Oct. 15.

If everyone fills out the AEB this year, coupled with statewide free school meals, Minnesota kids are on track to being as well-fed and educated as possible.

To the Editor:

Jim Hagedorn is a climate science denier.

Ninety-seven percent of climate scientists agree that man-made climate change is real, dangerous, and increasing at a rate far exceeding the earth's natural climate cycles.

Despite the exhaustive evidence, Minnesota's District 1 Rep. Jim Hagedorn claims he doesn't believe in man-made climate change at all.

At a town hall in Austin, Minnesota, Hagedorn stated, "I don't believe [in climate change] and I'm not going to risk our U.S. economy and way of life over it." Like many, I have observed with sadness the division in our nation. We also observe this division within our community.

Much has changed since CO-VID-19 came into our world, but that's only part of it. Some of the things that divide us now haven't changed in the past two years, but have since been used as leverage to create a chasm between ourselves and our neighbors in our own community.

Who is leveraging our differences of opinion in this endless tug of war? What is the motive for this division? While I certainly hold my own opinions and plan on keeping them, I can also recognize that there must be common ground between each of us on some level, in some way. In other words, where there appears to be a bold line of demarcation, I wonder if there's a little fuzz in the line somewhere? I wonder if the chasm isn't as wide as we believe?

I've become aware of certain "purity tests" on each side – where you have to check all the boxes to be on "our side" of a line. Is your side demanding a purity test? Are more criteria added regularly? Is your opinion nuanced, but you don't want your friends finding out, or you might not pass the purity test?

For instance, are you provaccine but anti vaccine mandate? Are you pro-vaccine but anti-mask?

I have heard a local person state that anti-maskers are anti-vaxxers.

Is this really true? Is it possible to have a nuanced view? Is the provaccine anti-masker welcome in any circle or are they outcast to all? Is the pro-mask anti-vaccine person welcome in any circle or are they outcast to all?

Are we aligning our thoughts so specifically to a purity test that we've stopped thinking for ourselves? I ask you to consider if you are conforming to a purity test, or if you are consciously or unconsciously demanding the same of others.

Are we looking at our community member convinced that they must be evil because they sit with the "other side," even when we've known these people for years? Surely there's nuance. Surely we are still a community.

Additionally, in the discussions I've heard, there are many absolutes, and no limiting principles on either side. There is no end game, just continued argument and requirement, devoid of grace.

Honestly, I think the difficulty in discussing issues hails back many decades where it has been considered impolite to discuss politics and religion in public, at family gatherings, or otherwise in polite company.

Maybe we should bring our beliefs to the light. Maybe we should discuss the uncomfortable respectfully in order to know how to. Maybe the time is now.

Greenwood, who lives in Rochester, shared with the H-BC students that he recently visited Valley Fair his daughter, and as they were about to enjoy a gap over his daughter's shoulders.

As the duo hung upside down during the ride, he was relieved that the slack harness held his daughter inside the coaster and kept her safe. He encouraged

"You see when I was your age, I thought I didn't need anybody," he said.

"I thought the popularity was enough. The girl was enough. The partying was enough. That was enough to numb the pain."

Greenwood told of his teenage desire to have a relationship with his father.

When his father reached out to him when Greenwood was 18, he was too angry to listen.

His father's suicide when Greenwood was 19 led Greenwood to hold even more feelings inside over his father's death.

His "harness" encouraged Greenwood to write a letter to his late dad as a healthy release of feelings. Greenwood wrote the letter eight years ago.

"This letter allowed me to breathe again – allowed me to start living again," he said.

1923: Luverne plays host to 300 firemen for annual meeting

The following appeared in The Rock County Herald on Oct. 5, 1923.

Luverne Firemen are Hosts to 300 Visitors

Semi-Annual Convention of Southwestern Minnesota Association Held Here Wednesday State Fire Marshall Gives Main Address

Business of Convention Occupies the Day—Banquet and Entertaining in the Evening

Luverne entertained approximately three hundred visiting firemen Wednesday at the fourth semi-annual district convention of the Southwestern Minnesota Firemen's association, and it was regarded as one of the most successful conventions, both from the educational and the social standpoint, in the history of the association.

Practically all of the departments who are members of the association sent delegations to the meeting, and in addition to this, there were representatives from many towns not included in this district, among them being Rock Rapids and Spirit Lake, Ia., Dell Rapids, Canton, Valley Springs, and Garretson, S.D.

As early as nine o'clock in the morning the visitors began to arrive, and by 9:30 a large crowd had assembled to hear the concert rendered on Main street by the Luverne concert band. The meeting was opened with an invocation by Rev. J. T. Brown and after this Mayor R. B. Hinkly

Minnwest Bank has purchased the lot and intends to construct a new office building there, which will have an updated front to match its neighboring offices, also undergoing renovation.

When the office building is completed, Minnwest will trade it with Pat Forester for his State Farm office, which is adjacent to the bank. Foerster will occupy the new space, and Minnwest will set up its insurance and investments in the State Farm office space.

near the Armory, and after this the official photograph of the convention was taken.

The session was resumed again at 1:30 p.m., at which time the business of the meeting was transacted. Since this was the semi-annual convention, the old officers of the association will retain their offices until the next meeting which will be held in May. The place of holding the next convention is to be decided by the executive committee.

Several topics of interest to all firemen were next taken up and discussed, the first of these being the question, "What Is the Best and Least Expensive Apparatus for Small Towns Having No Waterworks?" A delegate from Jasper and C. J. Martin, of the Luverne department, read papers on the subject. Mr. Martin's paper showed that the small town without waterworks needs a pumping fire truck, more than does the larger town that has waterworks. This is true for the reason that the fire trucks of the small town without waterworks has so much more depending upon it, as it must to some extent take the place of a waterworks system, and must have a sufficiently large motor and pumping capacity to draft water from cisterns and other sources of supply and deliver it in sufficient pressure and volume to be effective.

The mayor of the city of Slayton and Dick Collins, of Windom, read papers on the question, "Are Cities and Towns Keeping in Pace for Fire Protection in Proportion to Other Improvements?" Substance of their talks was that in nearly every case the city or town is willing to provide new and better equipment for the fire department, provided the department asks for it.

The upkeep of club rooms for the use of firemen, interesting initiations put on annually by the different departments, and a series of questions and discussions put on from time to time, were advocated by J. J. Kies, of Worthington, and Fred Pfaender, of New Ulm, as the best plans to create enthusiasm in volunteer fire departments.

Adrian archery range: A great idea that almost wasn't

It happens all the time. A good idea gets a little traction and then, for a whole host of reasons, dies on the vine.

This was what just about happened in the Adrian community when an Eagle Scout started a project to open an archery range about two years ago.

The required approvals were received from the necessary government entities, but over the next few months the project was not completed, and the Scout moved on to other endeavors.

But Adrian High School physical education teacher Gregg Nelson wasn't going to let the idea go unfulfilled. He decided to take the project and bring it to fruition as a memorial to his son, Logan, who died in a tragic boating accident.

Nelson is active in so many ways with the youth in his community, not only as a teacher but as a coach in high school baseball, football and wrestling.

In addition, he brought an archery program to the school by way of a Minnesota DNR grant to purchase the necessary equipment and safety gear.

Nelson and his son, Logan, were involved in bow hunting as a fatherson team. They enjoyed the sport together and as a result were pretty die-hard bow hunters.

There was not a safe, suitable location in their local community to practice the intense skill that requires hundreds of shooting hours to master. So Nelson picked up the archery range idea and recently completed an eight-lane archery range on the east edge of Adrian located in the city's wellhead protection area.

THE Outdoors

By Scott Rall Outdoors columnist

It happened as a result of his personal involvement, dedication and personal funding, with help from a small number of local businesses.

The range includes shooting distances from 10 to 80 yards and is complemented with the proper backstops and a small structure to get out of the elements.

The targets are provided for anyone one who wants to use the facility, and the range is open from sunrise to sunset almost yearround to participants of all ages, with those under 16 needing adult supervision.

The new archery range is now operated as part of the city parks division. Nelson also serves in the role of the Adrian campground supervisor during its seasonal operation.

The range opened a few weeks back, with a grand opening on Saturday, Oct. 9. It is officially called the P-10, which stands for Perfect-10, named for Logan's Instagram account, "P-10 Outdoors."

Phase 2 of this project will include an elevated shooting stand to simulate bow hunting from a tree stand. It's in the design phase in conjunction with materials, suppliers and a contractor to erect the platform.

There is a little landscaping yet to be done, but the range has seen an almost immediate utilization from archers of all ages and in substantial numbers.

It is an easy and convenient location on a gravel road just north of the Dollar Store on Highway 91 and then east a short distance.

There has been a significant increase in the number of both youth and adults getting more involved in outdoor recreation as a result of everything else pretty much being closed for most of the past 18 months.

Whether it's bikes, kayaks, camping gear, or archery and other shooting sports, it's all good news. It is my hope that as Nelson and his supporters help area residents enjoy a safe and well-organized archery program, some if not all of those participants will join the world of outdoor adventures on a permanent basis.

We need more folks of all ages and backgrounds to enjoy and protect our public lands and the state's natural resources. My hat's off to Gregg Nelson for his vision, determination and success.

Stop out at the range and see what happens when hard work and passion meet in the middle.

Pipestone Arrows chop Luverne Cardinals' winning streak and reclaim Battle Axe

By John Sichmeller For the Star Herald

The Pipestone Arrows took back the Battle Axe Friday night at Cardinal Field after defeating the Luverne Cardinals 20-16.

The Cardinals looked to be in good shape after taking a 16-8 lead into halftime, but the Arrows battled back to score 12 unanswered points in the second half to take the win.

The loss snapped the Luverne Cardinals' three-game winning streak.

"It was a tough loss for our team. The boys played hard and we just needed a couple more big plays to go our way which did not happen," Cardinal coach Todd Oye said.

"Pipestone deserves a lot of credit for the way they played in the second half."

Things started well for the Cardinals as they were able to get in the end zone on their first drive of the game.

After receiving the opening kickoff on their own 37-yard line, the Cardinals were able to gain nine yards in the first three plays and then converted a key fourth and one to keep the opening drive alive.

Facing second and 10 from the Cardinals' 47-yard line, Luverne quarterback Casey Sehr was able to find senior running back Ashton Sandbulte down the right side of the field.

Zach Kruse connects with a pass from Casey Sehr in the end zone to compete a two-point conversion to give the Luverne Cardinals an 8-0 lead in the first quarter of the Battle Axe Game with Pipestone, which won 20-16.

Sandbulte gained 22 yards on the play, bringing the Cardinals to the Arrows 31-yard line. He finished off the drive on the very next play as he took a pitch from Sehr and raced past multiple defenders up the left side of the field for the touchdown. The Cardinals were able to complete the two-point conversion after Sehr connected on a pass to senior Zach Kruse in the end zone. This gave the

LHS takes MCC 3-0 on home volleyball court

By Jaqueline Johnson For the Star Herald

Despite a slow start in Set 1, the Luverne Cardinals proved their strength in numbers on Senior Night at home by rattling the visiting Martin County West Mavericks with a 3-0 win Thursday, Oct. 7.

The Cardinals lost a hard-fought battle to Jackson 3-1 on the road Oct. 5 (see related story) and will travel to Adrian Friday, Oct. 15, and Hills Oct. 21 before section playoffs begin Oct. 29.

Reghan Bork got the Cardinals going in the MCC contest with a solid serve on Thursday for the final home match of the season.

Senior Macy Stratton passed the ball to Bork who set up for a kill by Elise Ferrell, who completed two more attacks early in Set 1.

Luverne pressed for a lead midway through the set when Bork set up Christina Wagner for a kill. The Cardinals were able to maintain that lead when Trista Baustian set Morgan Ahrendt and Anja Jarchow for strong plays at the net.

The Cards grabbed the set victory at 25-18 after Kamryn Van Batavia passed the ball to Bork for a Baustian roll shot.

With a string of 10 serves and two aces by Stratton, Luverne forced a Maverick timeout after a set by Van Batavia and kill by Bork in Set 2.

The Cards refused to let up, setting up Madee Schmuck for a kill to put them ahead 20-5.

A serve by Morgan Gonnerman prepared the Luverne defense to finish off Set 2, 25-8, with a block duo by Jarchow and Ferrell.

The Arrows finished off their 56-yard scoring drive when Johnson connected with wide receiver Maddox Biever for a 9-yard touchdown reception.

The Arrows converted their two-point conversion to tie the score at 8-8 with 5:08 to go in the first quarter.

The Luverne offense was forced to punt on the next possession, and the Arrows moved the ball down to the Luverne 21vard line before the Cardinals' defense came through with a fourth down sack by sophomore Connor Connell to give Luverne the ball back at their own 34-yard line.

Luverne was able to move the ball down the field and get into Pipestone territory quickly, thanks to a couple of catches from Luverne junior Gannon Ahrendt.

Ahrendt caught a 10yard pass for a first down and then followed that up with a 30-yard reception on a nicely thrown pass from Sehr down the Luverne sideline.

Luverne kept the ball on the ground the next few plays as Sandbulte and senior running back Braydon Ripka were able to gain valuable yardage to get deep into Pipestone territory.

The Cardinals were able to finish the drive off on a three-yard touchdown run by Sandbulte. Sehr once again found Kruse on the two-point conversion giving the Cardinals a 16-8 lead with 7:56 to go in the second quarter.

Luverne volleyball ready for section playoffs at month's end

By Reva Sehr For the Star Herald

The Luverne volleyball team fell to the Huskies 3-1 in Jackson Tuesday, Oct. 5, after a battle, with three of four games ending in no more than a threepoint span.

The Cardinals downed MCC at home Oct. 5 (see related story) and will travel to Adrian Friday, Oct. 15, and Hills Oct. 21 before section playoffs begin Oct. 29.

Throughout the first game with Jackson, both the Cardinals and Huskies were stingy on defense and within two points of each other almost the entire game.

Jackson scored first with powerful serves, but Luverne quickly recovered with a pass from Trista Baustian to Reghan Bork who set Anja Jarchow for a kill.

They immediately followed that up with a dig by Macy Stratton to Baustian who set Elise Ferrell for the kill. Luverne gained a one-point advantage with a play by Stratton, who passed it to Reghan Bork to set assist for Elise Ferrell to get it over the net.

Luverne was either trailing behind the Huskies or tied with them for the first half of the game.

Then, a kill by Ferrell and a block by Christina Wagner put Luverne in the lead for the next seven serves.

Baustian assisted Morgan Ahrendt on a kill, Kamryn Van Batavia executed a dig to Baustian who assisted Ahrendt for another kill, and Stratton got a dig to Bork who assisted Ferrell on a kill.

After that, it was alternating points by each team until they were tied at 25 each. An out-of-bounds by Luverne and a powerful kill by the Huskies gave the win to the Huskies, 27-25.

The Huskies came out aggressive in Game 2 with a kill to get them on the board first. Luverne responded with a pass from Jarchow to Bork who assisted Ferrell to put the ball over with a roll on the net before dropping on Jackson's side.

Luverne then slowly fell behind with a series of uncharacteristic mishaps and some forceful Huskies kills, that put the team behind by nine points. at 24, needing one more point for the win.

Luverne fought back with Van Batavia serving and her team backing her up. Jarchow and Ahrendt put up a powerful block against the Huskies to keep the ball in Cardinal possession.

Baustian then passed to Van Batavia who set it up for Ahrendt to deliver the attack. Ferrell followed that up with her own attack.

In consecutive plays Van Batavia dug a pass to Baustian who set Ahrendt for the attack. Jarchow and Ahrendt teamed up for three blocks to keep the Cardinals going. However, a Huskies kill stopped the Cardinal comeback for a 25-22JCC win in Game 2.

In a "do or die" situation the Cardinals started Game 3 with a Bork pass to Jarchow who assisted Ferrell on the kill for the first point.

The Cardinals lost the lead but quickly gained it back when Jarchow passed it to Bork who sent it to Ferrell for a light tap over the net.

The Huskies delivered a couple of offensive plays to put them back in the lead, and they seemed to stop the Cardinals at five points on the board with the gap increasing by six points.

The Cardinals clawed back with a Baustian pass to Bork who set Ferrell to punch it through a Huskies block.

Van Batavia got a dig to Bork who passed it back to her, and Van Batavia put it over the net. A couple of Cardinal and Huskies errors and a Huskies ace serve put Luverne behind by six again.

The Cardinals dug their heels in again with Stratton diving to save the ball when the Huskies attempted to put it in the Cardinal hole, and the Huskies' return went out of bounds.

The Huskies committed a few errors and Wagner registered a kill to put Luverne within two points.

Jackson called a timeout and seemed to gain a slight advantage, but a block by Jarchow by two when a Luverne block was blocked in return, giving the point to Jackson, and the Huskies followed up with a kill.

Not giving up, Stratton dug a pass to Baustian who set for a fierce Ferrell kill, which the Huskies responded to with a kill of their own to tie the game at 24.

Luverne capitalized on an out-of-bounds Huskies kill to win Game 3 26-24 after Baustian anticipated a rebound off a Huskies block and returned the ball to JCC who couldn't recover it.

Jackson, upset by the Cardinals win, came back strong in Game 4, getting the first point on the board.

Luverne responded by playing equally well in an extended volley that ended with Jackson hitting the ball out of bounds.

Not deterred, Jackson delivered an attack that Stratton dug to Baustian who set for a Ferrell kill.

Jackson responded in kind to tie the game at two, but a series of errors and an ace serve by Jackson put Luverne behind by five points.

Trying to catch up, Bork set assist to Wagner who put it over. Jackson increased their lead by six, and Luverne attempted to stop them with a block by the duo of Wagner/Ahrendt and a later dig by Ferrell to Baustian who set assist for Ahrendt.

Not long after that, Van Batavia executed a dig to Bork who sent it to Ferrell for the kill.

A couple of out-of-bounds attacks by the Huskies and a Stratton-to-Bork, back to Stratton back-row attack decreased the point spread to three points, which would be the closest the Cardinals would get to the Huskies in Game 4.

Luverne had one successful offensive play after that with Van Batavia getting the dig to Bork who set Baustian for the kill.

Luverne tried to stop the Huskies run with two blocks by Wagner, but Jackson claimed Game 4 by a score of 25-13 and won the match 3-1.

A final tip over the net by Tara Paulsen caught the Rebels off guard and secured the H-BC win 25-22. The Lady Pates had a hard time slowing down Rohrer's front row attacks in Game 3, and MCC took another easy win 25-11.

H-BC came out strong in Game 4 and got some touches and blocks to slow down MCC's hits. Three kills by Kenadie Fick started the Patriots out 3-2. Fick, Lanae Elbers, Sam Moser and Taylor Durst all contributed to kills and blocks. The score was tied 11-11 but MCC gained the lead 24-21.

Two kills by Elbers and a tip by Durst tied the score 24-24. Rohrer added another kill and gave MCC the lead back at 25-24, but the Rebels made a serving error to tie again, 25-25.

Durst served the final two points of Game 4 for H-BC to win 27-25.

MCC did not back down and took another easy win in the final 15-5.

The Patriots continued their pattern of struggling with the first set and handed MCC an easy first game win 25-10.

The Patriots came out ready to play in Game 2.

A couple of players who hadn't seen much playing time in the season contributed to the team effort.

A tip by Olivia Bork kept the Patriots' lead at 4-2. A kill by Leeanna Gaugler added to the score 24-17.

No matter what ... God is faithful

(Read Lamentations 3:19-26.)

"Patience is a virtue" is a familiar cliché that may be easier said than done, especially during times of illness, uncertainty or suffering. Life's circumstances are unpredictable. There are good times and not so good times. For human beings, suffering is inevitable.

During those difficult and challenging moments, it is vital to remember that our circumstances are never superior to the promises of God. The promises of God ultimately prevail!

The author of Lamentations experienced unimaginable circumstances. Jerusalem had been conquered and collapsed. The people of Israel were carried into exile. Their rivals were taunting them and rejoicing. To add insult to injury, it felt as though God had left them alone without care or support.

But in the middle of this great distress, the prophet proclaims, "It is good that one should wait quietly for the salvation of the Lord." The ability to wait for something without losing heart or losing hope is a valuable quality that fuels our faith in God.

There are times when we all have to realize that there are situations beyond our control. Those require that we wait patiently for God to aid, strengthen, and bring salvation to us. Though the prophet expresses feelings of hopelessness over tragic circumstances, hope is renewed with the assurance that relief is on the way. "But this I call to mind, and therefore I have hope: the steadfast love of the Lord never ceases, his mercies never come to an end;

BUILT ON A ROCK

By Pastor Jason Cunningham First Presbyterian Church, Luverne

they are new every morning; great is your faithfulness."

It is worth noting that this verse is the inspiration for the classic hymn, "Great Is Thy Faithfulness." People have offered various "attributes of God" over the centuries, but His faithfulness is always the most key. God is faithful. We can stand on the promises of God.

In the readings of the church, this passage from Lamentations sometimes comes up in the autumn season. While seasons are changing and leaves and temperatures start falling, there is a beauty that opens our eyes to the majesty of God. Every morning that we open our eyes there is an opportunity to acknowledge the faithfulness of God.

When suffering and struggle seem to be a routine in our world, we can boldly claim the eternal faithfulness of God as victory over trials. Always remember that God's faithfulness truly is great! The grace of God is certain. And "God's mercies never come to an end." A prayer: Holy and Almighty God, lead us to know your faithfulness. Give us the strength to wait patiently during times of challenge, knowing that your mercy provides the protection and hope needed to overcome whatever troubles us. In Christ. Amen.

A note from Mayor Patrick T. Baustian Wére All in This Together

The COVID-19 positive numbers are on the rise and I suppose that isn't entirely unexpected with the start of the school year and all the extracurricular activities for coaches, players and fans to enjoy. The recent Tri-State Band Festival brought hundreds of band members, parents and music fans to Luverne for a great display of musical talent. We all want to be able to enjoy these and many other events but to do so in a safe way. One of the easiest and safest ways to do this is to get vaccinated. The graph below shows that as we continue to gather in larger and larger crowds, the number of positive cases go up as well. Please get vaccinated and as the booster shot becomes available to you, please get that shot as well.

COVID-19 IS ON THE RISE IN ROCK COUNTY

Where to get vaccinated in Luverne?

Lewis Family Drug: Walk-ins M-F 10 a.m.-5 p.m. (Pfizer)

Sanford Luverne Clinic: Call for appointment 507-701-0779 (Moderna on Mondays, Pfizer rest of week days)

For additional locations in Minnesota, go to: https://mn.gov/covid19/vaccine/connector/connector.jsp

Where to get tested in Luverne?

Sanford Luverne Clinic: Call ahead. If symptomatic a nurse will call for more information and instructions on whether to be seen. If asymptomatic, wait 5-7 days after exposure prior to getting a test. All done in ambulance garage, 10 a.m. and adding 2 p.m. times as necessary. Not a rapid test, takes 24-48 hours for results back.

STRONGER-HEALTHIER TOGETHER

I am confident that Luverne Area Residents, working together, will emerge from this pandemic much stronger as a community.

Sincerely,
